CAR OVERTURNED—Emergency workers prepare Patricia A. Underwood, 38, of Bay St. Louis for transport to Hancock Medical Center shortly after 5 p.m. Monday after her car overturned in a ditch beside Felicity Street near Joe's Bayou. A hospital spokesman said Underwood was treated and released. Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Matt Karl reported that Underwood lost control of her vehicle after crossing a bridge over the bayou and ran off the road on a curve. Personnel from the sheriff's department, Mobile Medic Ambulance Service, Bay St. Louis Fire Department and Bay St. Louis Police Department took about 30 minutes to free the driver from the overturned vehicle, a 1974 Pinto. Jaws of Life were provided at the scene but did not have to be used, Firefighter Gary Maurice stated. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Port commission approves Stennis lease to Experimental Aircraft Association

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
After approximately a year of negotiations, the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission okayed an agreement Monday with Experimental Aircraft Association to locate at Stennis International Airport.

In the agreement, EEA Chapter 479, a non-profit corporation, will lease a one-acre site at Stennis for 15 years for an amount of $3,333 per year.

The association also has an option to purchase the land for a sum of $25,000. The purchase may be made during the term of the lease and a credit of one-half the rental payments will be allowed the association.

The agreement also allows the association a right of refusal to lease, with an option to purchase, an additional two-acre site adjacent to the first parcel of land.

Purchase price of the two-acre site is $50,000 and has similar rental and purchase terms as the first site.

Richard Brown, an association member and attorney, told the commission if the agreement was approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors work at the site may begin the same day.

Clearing of the site is necessary for the construction of a series of hangar for use by small aircraft and other structures as needed by the association.

The agreement also allows the association to construct a 60-foot grass taxiway crossing from the site to the 100-foot asphalt taxiway.

Also included in the agreement is provisions for the association to conduct special events such as air shows and "fly-ins."

Association President Paul McDaniel told the commission the "fly-ins" are monthly visits by members of other area association chapters.

"These are held on the third Sunday of the month and are just a reason for some people to go flying," he added.

Once a year the association plans to conduct an air show where aerobatic planes would be performing and the public invited, he said.

According to McDaniel, the eight airshows conducted by the association have been very successful and more than 1,000 people attended the last show.

"We are looking forward to growing in Hancock County," McDaniel said.

He said the association currently has 38 members and gains about two new members every month.

"We expect to get several new members from the Slidell area when we locate at Stennis," McDaniel added.

He also told the commission that although the group's name is Experimental Aircraft Association, many of its aircraft are standard factory planes with only slight modifications.

"We are one of 723 chapters of EEA whose purpose is promotion of general or sport aviation," McDaniel said.

Also at the meeting, commission executive director Harold Olsen reported on a recent visit to the Thermal Associates, Inc. manufacturing plant in Massachusetts.

Thermal Associates recently announced plans to locate a new assembly plant at Stennis.

Olsen and Carlos Cordon of Cortech Engineering reported the existing plant in the Massachusetts is very sophisticated.

Construction of a county-financed facility for Thermal Associates in Hancock County will cost approximately $25,000, slightly higher than originally anticipated, Cordon said.

Olsen told the commission, five area residents are already in training at the Massachusetts plant and probably 15 more will receive some training prior to the opening of Thermal Associates at Stennis in September.

He also said Thermal Associates President Richard F. Kiley has plans to consolidate the entire corporation at the Stennis location.

Thermal Associates is expected to bring Hatt-based operation to Stennis which would open up 16 more

DRUGS SEIZED—Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong, left, examines Drug paraphernalia as Sheriff Ronald Peterson counts money seized during the arrest of David Lee Bowman, Rt. Two, Box 351F, Bay St. Louis. Strong said he, Investigator Alvin Ladner and Deputies Don Watson and Albert Biehl raided Bowman's mobile home on Lower Bay Road shortly before midnight Monday on a search warrant obtained after the sheriff's department received a tip from a confidential informant. Among the items recovered were 14 small bags of processed marijuana, packaged for sale, and $137 in cash, Strong said. Bowman was charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute. He has been released on $5,000 bond. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Hospital head reports layoffs not result of money troubles

By DENA BISNETTE
Hancock Medical Center is not in financial trouble, Hospital Administrator Phillip Wolfe has told the hospital board and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors and the hospital board met jointly with Wolfe Tuesday morning to discuss lay-offs at the facility as well as a doctor's complaint that the hospital's emergency room contract is expiring.

Dr. William Bradford had appeared before the supervisors at their Aug. 3 meeting and had told the board that the contract was scheduled to expire at the end of August and that he understood it would not be renewed.

At that time, the supervisors set up the joint meeting to discuss the emergency room contract and the recent lay-offs.

According to Wolfe, the contractor, Dr. David Sawyer, does not intend to renew his contract but Hospital Corporation of America, which operates Hancock Medical Center, is seeking a new contractor.

"As I told the press last week, that's really old news. We renegotiate contracts all the time," Wolfe said.

The hospital can contract for emergency room services for as long as five years, but the usual procedure is one year.

"It would be the same set up with a different group," the administrator said.

He further stated that the hospital board has never considered nor been asked to consider discontinuing the emergency room service, although most of the hospital's bad debts come from that area.

ABSENTEE VOTING

The Hancock County Circuit

clerk's office is accepting absentee ballots for the Aug. 25 Democratic Runoff Election. The office is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. according to John Rutherford, circuit clerk.

The clerk's office will also be open Saturdays, Aug. 15 and 22 from 9 a.m. until noon for absentee voting with noon Aug. 22 being the deadline for absentee voting in person.

CLERMONT BLAZE—Manny Swartz, president of Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department, Wednesday morning surveys damages to a residence at 320 Forrest St. where an earlier fire rekindled about 9 a.m. Swartz said some 10,000 gallons of water were pumped onto the structure in an effort to extinguish the blaze which was initially reported about 2 a.m. Wednesday by next-door neighbor Irene Graff. Swartz said firefighters were able to save the neighboring residence owned by Mercedes Sullinger who was spending the night in Waveland with a sick friend. Sullinger said the destroyed residence is owned by Bruce and Barbara Frechen who are residing temporarily in Florida. Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh said Wednesday, although the fire remains under investigation, "...it appears to be accidental at this time." (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Son survives, father lost in Cat Island mishap

A Gulfport man died in a boating accident near Cat Island Saturday night.

The victim, Veldon J. "Bud" Moran, 55, was fishing for flounder with one of his sons, Christopher Moran, and his employer, Darlene McRoy, when their 10-foot aluminum boat overturned, said Coast Guard Executive Petty Officer Robert Harper.

The three were clinging to the hull of the boat in shallow water near Smuggler's Cove on the south side of the island, when Moran disappeared under the water.

McRoy and Christopher Moran clung to the hull for almost 10 hours, until a pleasure boat rescued them at 7:30 Sunday morning, Harper said.

Moran, a resident of Route 2 Gulfport, was a native of Harrison County and a retired nursing assistant at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Gulfport. He had served in the Army during Korea and was a member of St. Ann Catholic Church in Lizana and the Alfred Allemen Post Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Burial was in Wolf River Cemetery.

Pre-sale tickets available through mail for 'Evita'

Advance sale prices are available on tickets for Riviera Productions summer feature, "Evita," set for Aug. 28 and 29 at the Biloxi Saenger Theatre.

"These mail orders are being offered before we open to the ticket outlets," said Riviera Productions Box Office Manager Mary Feemster.

"This is being done due to early interest in the show," Feemster noted.

"Evita" was an international blockbuster hit in 1986 and was winner of seven Tony awards including Best Musical; six prestigious Drama Desk awards including Best Musical; and the New York Drama Critics' Circle award for best musical.

Feemster said mail-order reservations should include the performance date desired and either a stamped self-addressed envelope or whether tickets should be held at the box office until showtime.

All mail orders should include a telephone number.

Presale prices are $8 balcony and $10 orchestra for the 8 p.m. performances on both days and $8 for the 2 p.m. Aug. 29 matinee. All tickets are for reserved seating except the matinee, which is general admission.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to Riviera Productions, P.O. Box 1282, Biloxi, MS 39533.

Orders will be handled on a first come, first served basis, according to Feemster.

Riviera Productions is a nonprofit, professional non-union musical-comedy theatre company.

Cancer NEWSLINE

Skin Cancer: the facts

In recent years, there has been an alarming rise in the incidence of malignant melanoma, or skin cancer, reports the National Foundation for Cancer Research. It is estimated that over 6,000 persons in the U.S. die of melanoma annually.

Furthermore, skin cancer is on the rise among young people.

There is no current cure for the most severe forms of skin cancer, thick primary melanoma or metastatic (rapidly spreading) melanoma.

Neither radiation, chemotherapy, or immunotherapy, alone or in combination, are able to alter the progression of the disease.

But there is hope. Dr. Michael Wick, a physician-scientist working with the NCFR research contract, has synthesized a promising drug prototype specifically for aggressive, resistant tumors like melanoma.

Fortunately, the general public is becoming aware of this particularly troubling form of cancer. Greater care is being taken about sun protection.

In addition, since melanoma usually originates from the surface of the skin, early detection is possible, if you know what the warning signs are.

Symptoms to check for periodically include:

- *Sore that does not heal.
- *Change in shape, size or color of a wart or mole.
- *Sudden appearance of a mole.

If you have any of these symptoms, it does not necessarily mean that you have cancer. However, a doctor should always be consulted.

The National Foundation for Cancer Research is a private nonprofit organization based in Bethesda, Md.

With the help of donors nationwide, it has allocated more than $50 million to basic cancer research over the last decade.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of LILLIAN L. ROBERTS
 August 11, 1985

Mom, two years ago you went away. Sometimes it seems like a lifetime and then again it seems like only yesterday.

A million times I have needed you, a million times I've cried.

If love alone could have spared you, you never would have died.

If all the world was mine to give, I would give it, yes, and more to see you coming up my steps and walking through my door.

To hear your voice, to see your smile, to sit and talk with you a while.

To be with you the same old ways, would be my fondest wish today.

A heart of gold stopped beating, two smiling eyes at rest.

God broke my heart to prove to me, He only takes the best.

And since that day less happy times, my days have been more dim, but I feel the angels are still smiling to have you with them.

Never to be forgotten, we love and miss you.

Eye care project helps elderly Mississippians

A toll-free number has enabled 28 elderly Mississippians to receive treatment for diabetic retinopathy, a potentially blinding eye disease related to diabetes, through a public service program provided by the state's eye physicians and surgeons.

Since the National Eye Care project was launched in March 1986, more than 2,000 Mississippians have called the toll-free Helpline, 1-800-222-EYES (3337). The service, open 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays, is sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Mississippi Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Association.

Helpline provides medical eye care and information to the nation's disadvantaged elderly. By calling the toll-free number, Mississippians 65 and older who do not have access to an eye physician are eligible to receive services.

Volunteer ophthalmologists treat program participants without charge to the patients. Medicare and insurance are accepted for persons with coverage, and there is no charge for needy individuals without any coverage.

Diabetic retinopathy is one of the most treatable eye diseases, but it often progresses to blindness because many people with diabetes fail to seek eye care, and it is the leading cause of new blindness in the United States. It can develop in people who have diabetes mellitus, a common metabolic disease which causes changes in blood vessels throughout the body, including those in the eye.

Approximately 60 percent of persons who have diabetes for at least 15 years suffer some blood vessel damage in their eyes, making the elderly especially vulnerable. But early diagnosis and treatment can reduce the risk of severe visual loss by 50 percent or more.

"The elderly often feel that nothing can be done to prevent blindness, or they lack the financial resources to seek needed treatment," said Dr. David Segrest, a Jackson ophthalmologist and media spokesman for the Mississippi Eye Care project. "We're working to remove these obstacles."

Segrest said persons with diabetes should have periodic medical eye examinations.

In addition to the 28 elderly Mississippians examined and treated for diabetic retinopathy, the Helpline uncovered more than 565 cases of cataracts, 55 cases of glaucoma and 120 cases of muscular degeneration—serious eye diseases that can lead to blindness.

Segrest said 34 percent of the Helpline patients never had an eye exam before calling the toll-free number.

For information on other matters relating to the elderly, contact the Mississippi Council on Aging, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, at 949-2013.

ASSISTING VICTIM—A group of Bay St. Louis firefighters, Bay police officers, Mobile Medic Ambulance Service personnel and Sheriff's Department deputies steady the side of an overturned 1974 Ford Pinto Monday afternoon as other rescue workers attempt to open the door of the car to remove the injured driver, Patricia A. Underwood, 38, of Bay St. Louis. Underwood was taken to Hancock Medical Center, where a hospital spokesman said she was treated and released. According to Deputy Matt Karl, who investigated the accident, the driver lost control of the vehicle on a curve on Felicity Street at Joe's Bayou Bridge, causing the vehicle to leave the road and turn over in a ditch. Firefighter Gary Maurice stated that holding the car was necessary to keep a partially opened passenger-side door from closing on the driver's head. He said Underwood's hair was caught in part of the door and had to be cut before she could be freed. (Staff photo by Dena Blazette)

Employers of babysitters or housekeepers must pay social security taxes

Anyone who pays wages for household help such as a babysitter or housekeeper, may be subject to social security tax and Federal unemployment (FUTA) tax, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

If a household employee is paid cash wages of $50 or more during a calendar quarter, those wages are subject to social security tax, the IRS says. Both the employer and employee pay a share of the tax. The employer must withhold the employee's portion of the tax from the employee's wages.

For 1987, the social security tax rate is 7.15 percent for the employer and also for the employee.

The employer reports and pays for the social security tax four times a year on form 942, "Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees." The form has instructions for filling it out and a table to determine how much tax to withhold.

Anyone who pays cash wages of $1,000 or more to household employees in any calendar quarter in the current or preceding year generally is liable for FUTA tax for employees' unemployment insurance.

The FUTA tax is imposed on the employer. The rate is 6.2 percent of the first $7,000 of cash wages paid to each employee during the calendar year.

The employer must file Form 940, "Employer's Annual Federal Unemployment (FUTA) Tax Return."

If a household employee requests income tax withholding, and the employer agrees, the employer must withhold income tax based on the employee's Form W-4 or Form W-4A, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate." Publication 15, "Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide," explains how to figure the amount to withhold.

Keeping good records of wages paid, as well as taxes withheld and paid, is extremely important for household employers, according to IRS.

More information about the tax responsibilities of household employers is in free IRS Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit, and Employment Taxes for Household Employers," to get forms or publications, call 1-800-424-3876 or the IRS tax forms number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

THANK YOU

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the voters of Hancock County who supported me in my campaign for Superintendent of Education. Having received over 2,000 votes from citizens who believed that I could serve them well as their superintendent makes me proud to be a resident of Hancock County.

I want to extend my congratulations to Mr. Randolph and wish him much success during his next four years as Superintendent of Education.

Just think, many students are only a week away from the ringing of school bells.

Several area schools are opening on August 20 and others on the 24.

Parents purchasing are now seeking the correct clothing for their children.

Local merchants have a large selection of clothing for students of all ages.

School opening will mean buses will be once again traveling our roadways, and motorists are reminded not to pass a bus loading or unloading students.

Speed limits will also be reduced in school zones throughout our area.

Motorists should exercise extreme caution in school zones and also when they see children.

We hope all parents, students and teachers will have a safe school year.

We sometimes forget a very important service available to our residents, and we are talking about our libraries.

Our library system in Hancock County has locations in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Kiln.

Thousands upon thousands of books are available to everyone and especially to students.

Many school administrators and teachers remind students of the importance of using a library.

Not all of the books in our libraries are of the history type. Such books as the Best Sellers of The New York Times are available.

Looking for something to do, you may want to go to the library in your area. You may find just the book you have been wanting to read.

House votes compensation

for atomic veterans

WASHINGTON—More than 40 years after they were exposed to radiation while serving in the occupation forces at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, many so-called "atomic veterans" could soon be compensated for radiation-related diseases.

A bill approved by the U.S. House of Representatives would also authorize compensation for certain veterans who participated in the atmospheric testing of nuclear devices between 1945 and 1963.

"We have waited long enough," said Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery (D-MS), chairman of the House Committee on Veterans Affairs. "We have concluded that exposure to radiation at certain levels causes certain types of cancer. It is most difficult to establish for atomic veterans is the level of exposure. It probably will never be known. Therefore, we have decided that they should be given the benefit of the doubt and they should be compensated for their serious disabilities."

Rep. J. Roy Rowland (D-GA), chief sponsor of the legislation said,

"In working on this legislation I was concerned that we be as specific as possible in determining which diseases would entitle an atomic veteran to compensation. I am very pleased that the bill as reported contains those malignancies considered most likely to be related to exposure to ionizing radiation."

H.R. 1811 would authorize the VA to presume for compensation purposes that certain conditions may be the result of exposure to radiation. The bill provides that an eligible veteran may receive VA compensation if one or more of the following becomes manifest within 30 years of the "radiation-risk activity": leukemia, bronchogenic carcinoma, and cancer of the thyroid, breast, pharynx, esophagus, stomach, small intestine, colon, and pancreas. The Senate is considering similar legislation.

The House approved a second bill, H.R. 2945, which would provide a 4.1 percent cost-of-living adjustment in VA compensation benefits paid to more than 2.2 million veterans with service-connected disabilities. The increase, effective December 1, would also apply to dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) benefits for survivors.

H.R. 2945 would benefit certain former prisoners of war by adding three conditions—peripheral neuropathy due to trauma, spastic colon, and peptic (duodenal) ulcers—to the list of ailments for which the VA may pay compensation benefits to eligible veterans. The measure would drop from six months to 90 days the period of captivity required to qualify for VA dental care.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—It took a long time in coming, but Mississippians' concerns over corruption in county courthouses emerged in the Aug. 4 Democratic first primary as a statewide front-burner political issue.

What's more, it is evident that Mississippi voters are willing now to reward those in public office who began battling corrupt courthouse politicians before it became politically popular to do so.

State Auditor Ray Mabus' exceptionally strong showing in almost every county on his way to a 170,000 vote lead in the Democratic gubernatorial primary can only be interpreted as a tribute to his crackdown on misfeasance and malfeasance of county officials.

The same might well be said for the surprising lead in the race for attorney general the voters gave young Jackson County Dist. Atty. Mike Moore, who had established his reputation by forcing four county supervisors out of office on corruption charges.

Ironically, the pollsters early in the gubernatorial campaign had misread how deeply the people felt about public corruption. One poll, I recall, said that only 5 percent of the people rated corruption of public officials as a major concern.

Even Mabus, up until the first part of July, was not coming down very hard in his TV commercials on his anti-corruption crusade. But his strategists became convinced that it was his bread and butter issue and the last three weeks of the campaign were devoted to his "stop stealing" pitch.

There is no question, of course, that Mabus cashed in on the FBI's sting Operation Pretense that has thus far snared 37 county supervisors in its net, with more to come.

The timing of the FBI Pretense arrests and the convictions of the first three supervisors to be tried seemed in the public's mind to be part of what Mabus had been doing at the state level. Although Mabus' office cooperated with the FBI, it really had very little to do with the operation.

Of course, Mabus did nothing to dispel the public's perception. He even took credit in his TV commercial for having been responsible for indictment or removal from office of 31 county officials, although his office has no criminal powers.

Yet, until Mabus took over as state auditor in 1984 it was a job that could have been a tremendous force in stopping free-wheeling county corruption in Mississippi, but wasn't. Previous occupants chose instead to get along with the good ole boys.

Many old political hands predicted that Mabus was committing political suicide when he immediately put a stop to the illegal customs of supervisors putting free gravel on driveways and digging graves which had grown up to be a "right" in most counties.

As he tightened the reins on the politically powerful county officials the conventional wisdom held that if Mabus could ever run for governor, the county courthouses would "fix" his wagon.

The time for wagon-fixing came on Aug. 4 and Mabus seemed to come through it very nicely.

Fighting corruption in the county courthouses could very well turn out for Mabus to be the magic ingredient for winning the governor's office that fighting the utilities was for Bill Allain four years ago.

In the case of Allain, however, while his stance as a "fighting" attorney general was a major factor in getting him into the governor's office, once there he became a shadow boxer instead of a fighter.

As the second primary race between Mabus and wealthy planter-motel chain owner Mike Sturdivant got underway last week, there was growing political interest in Gov. Allain's behind-the-scenes role in the runoff.

While it was known by many in the first primary that Allain personally favored Sturdivant, this column learned last week that the governor is now deeply involved in Sturdivant's strategy council.

As one political associate of Allain put it: "He's in it up to his eye balls."

Meantime, the runoff battle was hitting some very sour notes, far afield from any substantive matters. In Mabus' case he would do well not to forget the issue that got him there.

Waveland firefighters urge retention of Dr. Bradford at HMC emergency room

Aug. 6, 1987
The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Sir:

We, the members of the Waveland Fire Department, want to go on record that we do not want to see Doctor William Bradford leave Hancock Medical Center when the Emergency Group's contract expires Sept. 1, 1987.

Doctor Bradford has been a volunteer fire fighter for more than 25 years and has trained all of us as well as paramedics, doctors and nurses throughout the state and along the Coast in emergency procedures.

During Hurricane Camille, Dr. Bradford came down from Memphis, Tenn. where he was stationed in the Navy and managed a shelter in the Old School House on Coleman Avenue, helped put out the fire on Coleman Avenue and gave shots throughout the county for days after the storm.

He is one of only a few board certified emergency physicians in the state of Mississippi.

We have just built a new hospital to serve the people of Hancock County. Priority must be given to our local certified emergency physicians to serve our emergency room for our local people.

We do not want to see Doctor Bradford leave.

Dr. Bradford's departure will be HMC's loss

August 10, 1987
Letters to the Editor,

Dear Sir,

If Hancock Medical Center does not renew the emergency room contract of Dr. William Bradford, it will be one of their biggest mistakes.

Dr. Bradford has devoted his entire medical career to emergency room work.

Not only is he a learned physician, but he has a kind, patient manner about him that does so much to help the patient and the relatives when one is seriously ill or in an accident. Since other doctors will not come to the emergency room to care for their patients as they did in the 'good old days,' I think Hancock Medical Center should keep someone with Dr. Bradford's qualifications. Please do not let some other hospital get Dr. Bradford! If that happens it will be their gain and our loss.

Respectfully,

Special interest parking offends Bay motorist

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am truly baffled. I am puzzled and bewildered. Here's why: In the 200 block of North Beach Blvd. are two 'No Parking' signs reserving space for the exclusive use of customers of the Beach Liquor Store.

I am of the opinion that our streets are owned by the people who pay taxes for their upkeep.

As our city grows, parking spaces in the commercial section are increasingly in demand. It bothers me to see cars creeping past those signs while seeking in vain for a place to park, especially during lunch hours when there is never enough parking space to accommodate diners.

Those 'No Parking' signs are, in my opinion, an affront and for the life of me I cannot understand what useful purpose they serve for the general public.

Professor seeks information on Spanish-American War unit

July 28, 1987
Dear Editor:

I am trying to locate veterans or relatives and friends of veterans of the Spanish-American War.

In particular, I am seeking information concerning the 5th U.S. Volunteer Infantry, an outfit that included a number of Mississippians, and Camp Walhalla that was located at Columbus, Mississippi.

Letters, photographs, newspaper clippings, or diaries would be of great help.

I will be happy to travel to interview people who have information about this organization.

I would appreciate anyone who knows of this unit to write to me or call me collect. My address is Dr. T. J. Ray, Dept. of English, University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677; my daytime phone is 232-7678, nighttime 234-3146.

From Mississippi Economic Council

ILLITERACY AFFECTS ECONOMY

Adult illiteracy is an economic problem both for those who are unable to read and write and for the state and its economic development efforts.

For the individual, illiteracy means low-paying jobs and personal embarrassment. Job opportunities are limited and skills training is necessary for most types of employment. The adult illiterate is severely limited in chances for self-improvement.

For the state, illiterate adults are a tax burden and a liability in wooing industrial prospects. Companies seeking a place to locate are turned off by a workforce that has a large number of adult illiterates.

Adult illiteracy is a problem the state cannot afford to ignore.

Mississippi has some 750,000 citizens age 25 or older who do not have a high school education.

Along with the human concern for helping others improve their lifestyles, efforts to decrease the illiteracy rate in the state will improve the overall economy of Mississippi.

Through the Education Reform Act, Mississippians have made a commitment to better the lives of the young people of the state. Starting with kindergarten, youngsters will have a better opportunity for a quality education. The reform act is designed to provide quality education for the state's children from the very beginning.

But the improvements in the standard educational system do not solve the problems of those already of work-force age who cannot secure good jobs because of a lack of education and training.

The problem is not just that of the illiterates, but of all Mississippians.

Business leaders in the state recognize the importance of the illiteracy problem and are joining other state leaders in an effort to search for solutions.

Senate reauthorizes Older Americans Act

The U.S. Senate has approved reauthorization of the Older Americans Act, legislation that provides a vast network of supportive services for America's elderly.

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), who is a co-sponsor of the bill, said a number of changes were made in the bill that will help "meet the challenge of maintaining programs that are efficiently operated, that are sensitive to changing needs, and that are aimed toward the goal of improving the opportunities for our senior citizens to lead full, happy lives."

As the ranking Republican member of the Aging Subcommittee, Cochran worked on the original draft of the bill and offered several recommendations for various changes in the legislation.

Among new services offered in the bill are certain in-home, non-health-care programs that will be made available through grants to the states. This would include homemaker services and other assistance to make daily life easier for some elderly individuals. "This is an opportunity for us to help senior citizens who are physically able and would like to stay in their homes is an important improvement," Cochran said. "I think that we're going to find that it will help make it possible for many of our older citizens to avoid unnecessary institutional care."

Another provision, included in the bill by Cochran, will now require the Federal Council on Aging to be made up of a majority of those who are old enough to be served by the programs administered under the act.

The five-year extension of the Older Americans Act calls for an increase in spending of about five percent per year. During the first year of the reauthorization, $1.6 billion will be spent on providing services for the nation's senior citizens.

The bill assures that programs traditionally provided under the act, such as Meals On Wheels, transportation service, and social services to the frail elderly, will be continued.

Good food buys: Coupons can save you money

To shoppers, coupons offer a chance to snap nickels and dimes off prices. But, to the U.S. food industry, coupon advertising is a $1 billion a year effort to capture customers.

While consumers can save money, food manufacturers find that coupons cost, but they also help boost sales by lowering the retail cost for the item, after the coupon value is subtracted from the price, which undercuts competition, increasing consumer awareness of the product, improving shelf space and position in stores.

The effectiveness of coupons appears to be drawing more attention in the food promotion picture. Coupons still comprise the smallest portion of the major types of food advertising and promotion.

Television and radio account for the largest share of food advertising expenditures with newspapers and magazines in second place. Consumer premiums such as trading stamps have all but disappeared, leaving coupons the main in-store attraction. Most local stores are now featuring double coupons, making them more attractive to more shoppers.

Not all coupons redeemed at food stores are for food products. Such non-food items as household supplies, pet food, tobacco and general merchandise account for a sizeable percent of coupons redeemed.

Among food items, coffee and highly processed products such as breakfast cereals, cake mixes and prepared foods are the most common among redeemed coupons.

Not surprisingly highly processed—highly couponed—foods also tend to be the most highly advertised in broadcast and print media. Thus, couponing is often part of a broader advertising strategy to promote a given product.

Couponing creates consumer demand for a specific brand, pressuring the retailer for prime shelf placement. Shelf space struggles aren't the only problem that coupons present to retailers. Store-brand products, which are usually priced about 20 percent below national brands, lose their crucial competitive advantage unless the retailer trims prices during couponing campaigns by national brand rivals.

Retailers also promote coupons, but often with a different objective. While manufacturers issue coupons to sell a given product, retailers use them to lure customers into the store—as well as to promote store-brand products.

In-ad coupons are a common form of retailer couponing. Coupons offered for store-brand products, produce and fresh meats are printed inside a store's newspaper ads. If national brands are thus promoted, the manufacturers usually reimburse at least some of the cost and may provide advertising formats.

Never buy a product just to use a coupon—but, if you need the product and would buy it anyway, coupons can help trim your food budget.

Taxpayers may save money by deducting moving expenses

Taxpayers who are changing their job location or starting a new job this year may be able to claim many of their moving expenses as an itemized deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040) when they file their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said. Form 3903 is used to compute the amount of deductible expenses.

Moving expenses that are allowable as an itemized deduction include the costs of: 1) househunting trips prior to the move but after getting the job; 2) disposing of the old home and getting a new one; 3) meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters at the new location; 4) moving personal items and household goods; and 5) transportation, meals, and lodging while traveling to the new residence.

A limited amount of job-related moving expenses may be deducted if the taxpayer meets the "distance test" and "time test," and the move is "closely related" to the start of work.

To meet the distance test, the new main job location must be at least 35 miles farther from the taxpayer's former home than the old main job location was. For example, if a taxpayer's old job was three miles from their former home, their new job must be at least 38 miles from that home.

To meet the time test, a taxpayer must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after arriving in the general area of a new job location. A taxpayer does not have to work 39 consecutive weeks or work for the same employer to meet this requirement. If a taxpayer is married and filing a joint return, and if both spouses work, either spouse's employment may fulfill the full-time work requirement but the weeks each spouse worked cannot be added together to fulfill the 39-week test.

Taxpayers who are self-employed must work full-time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after their move, and for a total of 78 weeks during the first 24 months.

In general, a move is considered closely related to the start of work if moving expenses are incurred within one year from the date the taxpayer first reported to work at the new location.

Taxpayers can deduct their moving expenses in the year they pay them. Taxpayers who did not deduct moving expenses on a return already filed, may be able to file an amended return. For more information, Publication 521, "Moving Expenses," is available free by calling the IRS Tax Forms/Publications number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

Jail trusty flees to avoid transfer

BY DENA BISNETTE

A federal detainee who walked away from the Hancock County Jail Tuesday morning was recaptured within 10 minutes and is awaiting transfer to another facility.

According to Jail Warden Jim Odom, Phillip Jimenez, a Cuban detainee, apparently fled in order to avoid the transfer.

Odom said Jimenez, a trusty, had been informed that he was about to be transferred under orders from the Immigration and Naturalization Service and "apparently didn't want to leave Hancock County."

The detainee was scheduled to work with a work crew going to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Farm in Kiln, but instead left through the jail's back gate at about 7 a.m. Tuesday, Odom explained.

"From what he told us, we think he had planned to stay in Waveland with someone he had become friends with," the warden said.

Jimenez was discovered missing about two minutes after he left and his description was broadcast over the sheriff's department radio.

He was apprehended about 10 minutes later through the cooperation of Waveland police officers David Stepro and Greg Martin and deputies Dennis Tartavouille and Gus Garcia, Odom stated.

Human resources agency approves child development center budget

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Human Resource Agency Tuesday approved a budget for the child development center as presented by recently appointed Director Lora Pittman.

The budget actually includes three contracts by the center with various state and federal agencies which provide funding.

The largest portion of the budget is salaries for the eight employees for an amount of $74,274. A small portion of salary funds will be paid from a separate budget of county funds.

Six thousand dollars is budgeted for rent and $5,500 is included for utilities and telephone expenses.

The cost of bookkeeping services is also budgeted at $150 per month or $1,800 per year.

For regular and conference travel, $350 is budgeted. This includes mileage of 20 cents per mile for travel required by employees and travel costs for employees attending conferences, workshops, seminar or other programs for staff development. Training funds in the amount of $75 are also included.

Twelve hundred dollars is budgeted for supplies including program supplies, maintenance materials and office supplies.

Pittman said in instances where the budgeted funds on contract are not sufficient, additional funds will be used from the budget of county funds donated to the center.

For both content and liability insurance, $700 is budgeted.

Also included in the budget is $150 for fidelity bonding; $100 for field trips; $400 for miscellaneous costs; $240 for pest control; $350 for equipment repair; and $453 for routine upkeep of buildings and grounds.

Pittman replaces former director Beth Favre, who resigned in July.

She is a graduate of Picaune High School, Pearl River Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi.

At USM Pittman earned a bachelor's degree in science in social and rehabilitation services.

Prior to being appointed as director, Pittman worked more than two years with the Hancock County Welfare Department. At this office she was employed as a social worker and worked with children.

Pittman said basically since she began working, she has been concentrating on the budget.

She expects to make a few changes in the program in the future.

Also at the meeting a budget for the Hancock County Senior Citizens Association was discussed.

Director Eve McDonald said the final budget would be finished this week.

THE COLLECTORS

Antique enthusiasts and flea-market sleuths will find two patriotic collectors in Dana Garrett and Bob Rau, hosts of a new series at 1 p.m., Sundays, beginning Aug. 16, on Mississippi ETV.

In each of the 13 programs in "The Collectors" series, Garrett and Rau take viewers to different locations in the Pacific Northwest to view various collections, such as turn-of-the-century toys, tools, Victorian clothes, dollhouse furniture, model railroads and kitchen items.

EARLY ROCK & ROLL

Rock and roll performances from vintage television shows, classic movies, old newsreels and home movies tell the story in "Rock and Roll: The Early Days" at 3 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 16, on Mississippi ETV. This documentary was first shown on ETV last December.

John Heard narrates the 60-minute program, which includes performances by Bill Haley and the Comets, Bo Diddley, Pat Boone, Fats Domino, Little Richard, Elvis Presley, Buddy Holly, the Everly Brothers, Fabian, Chuck Berry, Muddy Waters and Richie Valens.

Bay-Waveland Schools seeking lower drop-out rate, better community relations

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board is looking into several plans to curb student drop-out rates and help the community become more involved with local schools.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge, reported to the board Monday regarding progress with plans in both areas, which the board had authorized him to explore earlier this year.

He said several drop-out prevention plans could be implemented in the schools, including one which has been successful in several Texas school districts and one school district in Louisiana.

Details on the program, called Project YOU, were not available in time for Monday's meeting.

However, Oge explained that the program depends on the identification of potential drop-outs. Once the students who may leave school have been identified, they are required to participate in a specific course of counseling.

A second proposed method is administration of a drop-out alertness scale to students whom teachers suspect to be potential drop-outs. The scale is a diagnostic tool consisting of a number of questions, Oge explained.

The questions included in the scale deal with whether the student is failing or has failed courses; likes or dislikes his school, teachers and classmates; feels he should not continue attending school; and related matters.

A third proposal discussed Monday is the Adopt-a-Student Program, in which a specific teacher provides personal attention to a specific student.

"The teacher spends time with the student, maybe attends after-school functions like athletic events with him and gives him someone to talk with about his problems," the superintendent explained.

Once the potential drop-out's problems are identified, the teacher helps him with solutions.

In the area of improving school-to-community relations, Oge has proposed several round table discussion groups, two publications and a special telephone line to keep the community apprised of school events.

The telephone line, if approved, would be answered by a machine playing a recorded message and is expected to reduce the number of inquiries received by the individual schools and the central office.

In the same area, the superintendent is proposing a monthly newsletter and a quarterly community update publication about the schools.

In addition, Oge asked the board to consider approving the discussion groups. He said the student group would have 12 to 15 participants and would focus on issues and events within the schools rather than specific complaints regarding specific teachers.

A similar group would be organized for teachers and another, basically the same as the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Education Committee, would be set up to allow the local business community to become more involved with the schools, the superintendent said.

The board has not yet approved any of the proposals because all are still in working stages, but has instructed Oge to continue his research.

Board President Betty Diboll praised the superintendent's efforts.

"What I see here is very good. It's a positive step. We're trying to forget the past and the problems we have had in the past. We want to take care of them but we also want to improve this system," she said.

She asked for the cooperation of all school district employees and the general public in supporting the board's efforts to improve the schools.

In other business Monday, the board:

—Approved hiring several teacher aides and Chapter I aides;

—Approved resignation of Waveland Elementary School kindergarten teacher Frances Sones;

—Approved hiring school bus drivers for the 1987-88 school year;

—Accepted bids on pest control and an annual school district audit and agreed to readvertise for building and bus insurance bids;

—Discussed the possibility of establishing a centralized inventory and equipment for all schools and the central office;

—Discussed the possibility of having Bay Senior High designated as a Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps Program site; and —Approved an annual maintenance contract with Pico, Inc., for the air conditioning system at Waveland Elementary School.

The next regular school board meeting will be Monday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m. in the superintendent's boardroom at Bay Senior High School.

Also at the meeting the commission:

—Approved a resolution authorizing payment of interest due to Economic Development Authority by the proper officers.

—Approved a resolution to accept a bid from Crown Equipment for sewer force main protection at Port Bienville Industrial Park in the amount of $9,674.

—Approved the General Operating Docket, Railroad Operating Docket, Industrial Park Revenue Docket, Airport Construction Docket and Terminal Docket.

crease over $91,600 requested last year.

Gulf Coast Women's Center, a shelter for battered women and their children, is making its first request for funding from Hancock County, Walker said. The amount being requested is $5,000.

The Retired Senior Volunteers Program request is the same as last year's, $2,500.

The Hancock County Park Commission is requesting $70,600, an increase over last year's $58,600.

Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service has requested $36,800, an $1,100 increase over last year's $35,700 request.

Mobile Medic Ambulance Service has requested $125,000. Last year, Hancock County contributed $80,000 in county funds and $10,000 in state funds that were administered through the county.

Most of the increases in requests by the various agencies fall under a 10 percent cap the state has imposed on county budget increases, the comptroller said.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department has asked for $494,900 for the department itself and $324,500 for the operation of the county jail. Last year's jail request was $73,400. However, Walker said the amount was formulated with the old jail in mind and did not include a monthly average of $25,000 for housing federal prisoners.

The county's proposed road maintenance account consists of $1,100,000, up from $981,000 last year.

A 10 percent increase has been requested in bridge construction for a total of $193,000.

Last year's allocation for the county landfill at Catahoula was $130,500 and this year's increase is $143,000.

A request of $600,000 for seawall purposes is being considered, with $100,000 designated for operations and maintenance and the remainder for capital improvements.

According to Chancery Clerk Michael Negase, the board is also considering pay raises for most of the county employees this year.

There are some exceptions, including employees in departments such as the sheriff's department, which is allowed to set its own salaries.

The raises proposed would $1,500 per year for road and drainage crew foremen and $600 per year across-the-board for other employees.

In addition to the budget hearing, which begins at 10 a.m., the board will conduct public hearings on issuance of general obligation bonds for improvements on the Hancock County Fairgrounds, establishment of a bird and game sanctuary in Heron Bay subdivision at Ansley and addition of territory to Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1.

The fairgrounds bonds hearing begins at 10 a.m. along with the budget hearing and will allow the public to comment on the board's advertised intent to issue $150,000 in bonds for improvement of the fairgrounds building, which is expected to include adding air conditioning and a more efficient heating system.

The bird and game sanctuary hearing begins at 10:30 a.m. If the sanctuary is approved, no hunting will be allowed in the subdivision.

The addition to the wastewater district will be discussed in a hearing scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m.

The district itself has already been approved and is located in a section of Beat Five, but a group of Beat Four citizens have petitioned to include a section of territory along Longfellow Road from the Waveland city limits to Highway 603.

The district and its extension are the first unincorporated sections of the county scheduled for publicly owned sewerage, which will be constructed as the last phase of a four-part improvement project under the administration of Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

The board meeting itself begins at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Layoffs.....

He explained that Hancock Medical Center, formerly Hancock General Hospital, averages about $1.5 million or more in bad debts each year.

"That's 15 percent of our budget and it's high as compared to other hospitals."

"It's a function of the economy, or maybe a function of attitude, an 'I don't have to pay my bill' thing," Wolfe said.

"If the patient can't pay and the doctor wants to admit that patient, the hospital eats the bill."

Most of the unpaid bills are from emergency cases who are unable to pay or do not pay, since doctors can usually control the bad debt situation for in-patient treatment," the administrator added.

A new clinic proposed for Waveland that would cater to low income patients would probably not actually help the situation, he added, because if the patients treated there must be admitted to a hospital, they will be sent to Hancock Medical Center.

Wolfe told the two boards that the lay-offs are the result of the hospital operators attempting to keep costs down, but are not related to financial problems.

Normally, the hospital's personnel includes 10 to 15 people who work part-time or on an as-needed basis in areas not specifically related to patient care and who may be laid off or rehired at any time. The size of the staff may fluctuate by that number many given month according to patient census, the administrator has explained.

"When we built the hospital, we knew we would have a $91,000 debt service," Wolfe said.

"We did extremely well for the first three months, March, April and May, which was our highest ever including the time we were in Hancock General, but things began to go down in June and July."

"It is common for the census to go down that time of year, but not that low," he added.

He said the first cuts were made in support and administration rather than patient care or essential services like housekeeping.

"We laid off eight or 10 people in July to protect the financial liability of this hospital. We have also done some other things with other contracts, and we're now saving $95,000 per month."

Wolfe said $45,000 of that $95,000 is personnel-related and the remaining savings come from renegotiated contracts.

He also said the situation is improving.

"Last month we collected more cash than ever before in this hospital, and that's a positive trend," he explained.

The remainder of the meeting dealt with specific personnel and was held in an executive session called in compliance with Mississippi's open meetings law.

The supervisors had stated when they agreed to arrange the meeting that part of the proceedings would probably have to be conducted in executive session because they intended to discuss Bradford's status as an emergency room doctor.

Wolfe explained after the meeting that Bradford's status actually depends on the new contractor.

If the new emergency room contractor chooses to hire Bradford, he will continue as an emergency room doctor at Hancock Medical Center.

BOB JOINER THANKS VOTERS

Words are inadequate to express my heartfelt appreciation to each of you for your tremendous vote of confidence which I take to be a mandate to continue to work for better highways in the Southern District. For the many kindnesses, hospitalities, words of encouragement and advice, I say thank you, thank you, thank you.

Tree planting in Hancock County has been increasing steadily for the past several years, and the upcoming planting season will be no exception. The list of landowners wanting to plant seedlings is growing daily.

This means that preparations must be made now—those who delay may encounter some real problems getting their trees planted this winter.

Here's some of the things you need to attend to now:

Answer correspondence promptly. If you're planting under one of the government cost-share programs (most everyone is) you're going to receive some forms to sign from the ASCS, SCS, or MFC. Follow directions carefully, and return them immediately. We realize that all the paperwork is a nuisance, but it's necessary.

Provide needed information to my office, if requested. We may have trouble locating landlines, or may not understand exactly where on your property you want your seedlings planted. Often we can find enough of an old landline to re-establish it. If not, it might be necessary to have the property surveyed. We can't take chances with landlines.

Order your seedlings now! Seedlings are available from several sources, including my office, but they are in short supply. We have already sold out of improved loblolly pine, but regular loblolly is still available.

Make plans to get your work done. If control burning is necessary, we'll probably have to do it, since most private forestry firms don't control burn. We do a limited amount of site preparation and tree planting, but most is done by private contractors (we call them "vendors").

I have a list in my office of all the vendors we know of who do work in the county. You can choose one of these, or anyone else you know of who will do your work. (You can even do it yourself, if you want to).

Agree on a price with the vendor. This is also a good time to discuss planting date, if you have a preference.

When planting season arrives, there are some things you can do to make the work go smoother.

If the vendor agreed to plant at a certain date, call him a week or two in advance to see if he's on schedule. Don't be disappointed or upset if he's not. His work depends on the weather, and we all know how unpredictable that is.

Let my office know when he starts planting. We often like to check on planting jobs just to be sure that everything's alright.

When the work is complete, advise us immediately.

Pay the vendor full price for the planting just as soon as we notify you that we've checked the work and it meets established standards.

Tree planting is a partnership between governmental agencies and landowners—in getting the work done, as well as sharing the cost.

We are eager to give you technical advice and assistance, but the success of your tree planting often depends on how well you take care of necessary details.

Kiwanis Clubs Win Presidential Award for Drug-Abuse Program

During the past two years, Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States have conducted a comprehensive public-service campaign to combat school-age drug abuse. In a recent White House ceremony, President Ronald Reagan recognized the Kiwanis program with a Presidential Award for Private Sector Initiatives.

"Farmweek" reporters will visit Sledge Taylor, this year's Mississippi Cattleman of the Year, at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 17, on Mississippi ETV.

The Panola County farmer, winner of several cattle farming awards in the recent past, deals primarily with Angus cattle. Yet he is a diversified farmer—also raising cotton, corn and sorghum.

"Farmweek" reporters will talk with Taylor about his marketing skills and the emphasis he places on keeping proper records on his cattle.

heart. You give generously, and you give well—often putting comparable government programs to shame.

"Kiwanians have demonstrated compassion and caring over and over again, in thousands of communities, and for that reason I am proud to announce that you have been selected to receive my Private Sector Initiative Award for all that you've done to fight school-age drug abuse."

The Presidential Award for Private Sector Initiatives is "the highest honor in the country recognizing community outreach programs," according to R. William Taylor, chairman of the awards committee.

Kiwanis clubs have been working to prevent and treat school-age drug and alcohol abuse since the organization launched "Operation Drug Alert" in 1969.

"In recent months, many organizations and celebrities have begun to address the school-age drug problem," says Kiwanis International President Frank J. DiNoto, who accepted the award from President Reagan. "Kiwanians are proud that the efforts recognized by this award were initiated more than two years ago and are a continuation of our efforts on this subject throughout the past two decades."

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You By Jim Henrie

Here's a baseball oddity. You'd think having a 400 hitter would help a team, but did you know that no major league team ever won a pennant when one of their regular players hit over 400? Since 1900, there have been 13 times when a big league player hit over 400 for the season—and on each of those 13 occasions, the team with a 400 hitter failed to finish first. Any manager would welcome a 400 hitter, yet so far, all of them have been losers as far as winning a pennant is concerned.

Here's an interesting baseball question for you...What member of baseball's Hall of Fame struck out every time he came to bat one season? The answer is Sandy Koufax. During the 1955 season, Sandy came to bat 12 times during the year—and struck out all 12 times.

Who would you say was the youngest person ever to lead a major league in home runs at the end of any season? Answer is Tony Conigliaro who won the home run title of the American League in 1965 at the age of 20, and thereby became the youngest homer champ in big league history.

I bet you didn't know...Auto World, formerly Bay-Waveland Auto Supply, still has mechanic shop space and retail space for rent. Think about our traffic increase when the new post office opens.

Homemade peach ice cream is to me, and to so many others, a delicious symbol of sultry Southern summers, especially along our Gulf Coast.

In the days of my growing up, of course, the ice cream was frozen in the hand-cranked freezer buckets, packed in ice and salt and with my brothers and my sister and I arguing loudly over whose turn it was to lick the dasher - the scene on the back porch was anything but tranquil!

Then, of course, along came the electric ice cream freezers, and all sorts of other gadgets - but, somehow in my thoughts, nothing could compare with those hand-turned old-time freezers - perhaps some of you feel the same way.

Many of us, especially when we needed smaller quantities of ice cream, started making it in the freezer trays of the refrigerator - but, somehow, the ice granules kept marring the perfection of the finished product.

So, recently I started experimenting a bit here and there. Most ice creams, fresh peach or otherwise, made in the refrigerator freezer compartment are not as creamy or as good as those slowly churned in a hand-cranked ice cream freezer, or in an electrically powered one, as we all know.

So, eventually, I came up with a sort of cross between an ice cream and a mousse - and I like it, so try it! Here's:

PEACH MOUSSE

(Or, if you want to give it the French touch, call it "Mousse Aux Peches.")

2 cups sweetened pureed peaches - or just "smash" them up
6 egg yolks

1/2 cup heavy cream (1 cup whipped)

Six or seven juicy, ripe peaches, depending, of course, upon size, should be enough for this. Cook them, with water and just enough sugar to sweeten them, until a bit soft - then press them through a sieve or buzz in the blender for a fine puree - or just smash them up with a heavy spoon or potato masher or such if you, like I, prefer a bit more texture to your food. As a matter of fact, I often make this without cooking the peaches at all.

At any rate, when you've got it all together to suit you, measure out two cups - if there's any left over, it's delicious on buttered toast at breakfast or teatime.

Place the two cups of puree in a double boiler pan or a heavy pan. Beat in the egg yolks, and whip the mixture over a low fire until it froths and begins to thicken. (The double boiler method is safer against scorching, but takes a little longer.) For whipping, I use a wire whisk, one of the handiest gadgets in my kitchen.

Pour the mixture into a large bowl, and chill thoroughly. If it's too pale in color, judiciously add a very few drops of food coloring, just enough to give a pinkish shade. Whip the cream very stiff, and fold gently into the peach mixture. Pour into refrigerator trays or a mold (I prefer a mold) and freeze at least four or five hours.

Here's another:

EASY PEACH ICE CREAM

2 cups peach pulp

1/4 cup sugar

Juice of a lemon

Pinch of salt

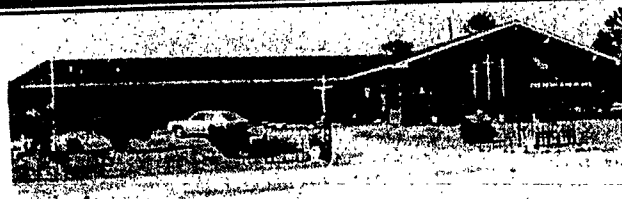

1/2 pt. whipping cream

2 eggs, separated

2 Tblsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Mash peaches (quite soft, ripe ones) quite well, add the sugar and lemon juice, and when dissolved, pour into refrigerator tray and freeze for 45 minutes to an hour.
Beat the egg whites stiff, adding the sugar, fold into the beaten yolks.

Whip the cream to the consistency of thick custard, and combine with the beaten eggs. Add the vanilla and the frozen peach pulp, mixing together lightly. Return to freezer till firm and ready.

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

"Be such a man, and live such a life."

"That if every man were as you, and every life such as yours, 'This earth would be God's paradise.'"

—Phillips Brooks

Most Reverend Joseph Lawson Howze, D.D., Bishop of Biloxi has announced since we are celebrating the Marian Year from June 7, 1987, to Aug. 15, 1988, he is asking the pastors, associates and people of the diocese to celebrate the Feast of the Assumption Sunday, Aug. 16 with special devotions.

Sunday, celebration for the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Masses at St. Ann and St. John churches will be the same as usual.

St. Ann - Vigil Mass, Saturday, Aug. 15 at 5 p.m.; Sunday, Aug. 16 Mass, 9:30 a.m.

St. John, Lakeshore - Mass Sunday, Aug. 16, 8 a.m.

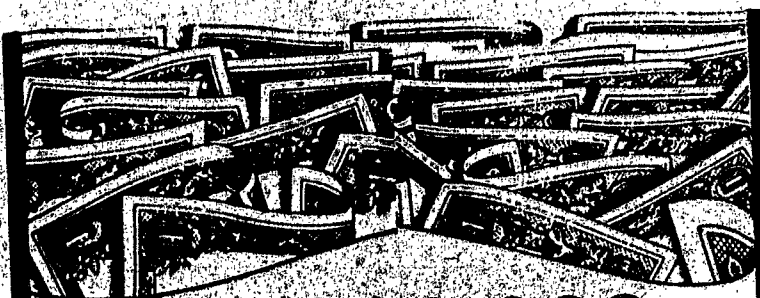

Father Stack would like to express this thanks and appreciation to all the workers, contributors and customers responsible for the success of St. Ann-St. John annual rummage sale last week.

Father Stack and St. Ann-St. John CYO members would like to thank everyone who supported the group's recent po-boy sale which was also a big success.

STATE FINALS—The Waveland T-Ball All Stars will be competing against Waynesboro this weekend in Waynesboro for the state championship. They will play a best out of three series beginning Friday at 7 p.m. The T-Ball All Stars advanced to the finals by winning the Southern District Little League Tournament last week in Saucier. "This is the first year a team from Waveland Little League has won a district tournament," League President Bernard Tusa said. "I have been around baseball for my entire life and this is the best T-ball team I have ever seen." He also congratulated Manager

Preston Mauffray, coaches and players for an "excellent season" and feels confident that this All Star team can bring home the state championship. Team members include, front row from left, Mark Manganiello, Jeremy Fountain, Aaron Clayborn, Steven Mauffray, Raymond Ramsey, John Woods and James Geffrey; second row, Stephen Hays, Don Lee, Jeremy Fountain, Ace Berry, Jason Bounds, Ben Holland and Shawn Pedarre; and rear, League President Bernard Tusa, Coach Lonnie Clayborn, Manager Preston Mauffray, Coach John Pucheu and Coach Ken Kararick.

Soil Conservation sponsoring new fish stocking program

Farm pond owners can now receive fish for stocking into farm ponds in Mississippi.

Applications must be received by Sept. 1, 1987, for the 1987 stocking year. Cutoff dates for future years will be June 1.

The Soil Conservation Service will provide assistance to pond owners in submitting applications for fish. The Soil Conservation Service is cooperating with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in the farm pond stocking program in Mississippi.

New policies and procedures have been developed to improve the program. Under this program, fish can only be furnished for the initial stocking of new or renovated ponds.

Renovated ponds include: old ponds that have had pipes installed, levees repaired, edges deepened, and existing fish eradicated. Ponds with existing fish or eradicating existing fish already in a pond will not qualify for restocking.

Fish species available will be bream and bass only. No catfish will be available through this new program. Bream will be provided to pond owners at the rate of 500 per surface acre. Bass will be provided at the rate of 50 per surface acre.

Distribution sites will be established at various locations throughout the state. Individual counties will not receive fish deliveries as in the past.

Site locations and delivery arrangements for the fall of 1987 will be determined later. Each pond owner will be notified of these locations and delivery details.

For applications or more information on the new fish stocking program in Hancock County contact the Soil Conservation Service at 255-3225.

Diamondhead student in golf management co-op education program

Theodore L. Reshew, of Diamondhead Cooperative Education Program at Mississippi State University while working for a baccalaureate degree in professional golf management.

Under this program he is receiving not only his regular college education, but also practical experience in professional golf management. In addition to this experience he receives a salary.

Reshew is completing his third work semester with Colonial Country Club, Cordova, Tennessee, and will be returning to the Mississippi

State campus for the fall semester.

During this work semester Reshew says his duties have included maintaining inventory, renting carts, rangeling, starting, bag room work, assisting in Junior Clinic, helping coordinate PGA tour event, and assisting in member guest and trick shot exhibition.

The cooperative education program is available in accountancy, agriculture and home economics, arts and sciences, business and industry education, engineering and forest resources.

Women's golf results listed

Diamondhead Women's Golf Association reports the following tournament results:

BMR survey shows:

Coast saltwater fishermen violating new regulations

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A recent creel survey by the Bureau of Marine Resources revealed there is "a great deal of abuse" of existing laws which govern saltwater fishing on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Dr. Fred Deegen, chief of the division of salt water fisheries, says he hopes the abuse is because people are not aware of the laws rather than flagrant disregard of the restrictions.

"A large number of undersized speckled trout and redfish are being kept and the number being carried away is in excess of the limits," he said.

The regulations will help increase the fish population and it is the mutual responsibility of fishermen and governing bodies to insure the fish have a chance to spawn, he said.

Current laws regarding speckled trout limit the number of fish per day to 25 and these fish must be 14-inches-long or longer, Deegen said.

"We have documented scientific evidence that the speckled trout haven't had a chance to spawn until they reach this size," he added.

"When undersized fish are caught they must simply be returned to the water," Deegen said.

Fishermen are allowed to keep up to five undersize fish that are injured or that would die if they were returned to the water, he said.

The limit for redfish is 10 per day and no fisherman may have more than two redfish larger than 30 inches long.

"The larger redfish are the ones that spawn and this limit is necessary to protect them and insure a better spawn," Deegen said.

These regulations have been in effect since the beginning of the year. Deegen said Texas and Alabama now have regulations which prohibit the sale of both speckled trout and redfish.

"Florida officials are also considering a similar regulations and Louisiana has begun implementing a 12-inch size limit on redfish," he said.

Deegen said fishermen may also be unaware of federal regulations on cobia or lemon fish and king mackerel which were adopted by the state.

According to these regulations any cobia or lemon fish which is smaller than 33 inches must be turned loose.

Federal and state laws also prohibit people in private boats from keeping more than two king mackerel fish, he added.

Deegen said discussions on a saltwater fishing license continue but he does not think there is enough support for this license requirement to materialize.

Federal funds assist Coastal improvement projects

The Department of Wildlife Conservation, Bureau of Marine Resources reports its 1987 shell planting operation is underway.

The bureau is planting approximately 16,000 cubic yards of clam shell as a base for young oysters.

The shell planting program is a yearly undertaking to help the oyster industry which has been beleagured by less than suitable environmental conditions over the past few seasons.

This year's shell planting is unique in that a $100,000 federal grant through the Coastal Zone Management Act 306A construction program is being used to fund the planting.

Gary Cuevas, 306A project coordinator, indicated that nearly one half million dollars of construction using 306A funds is presently under way or approved for construction.

Projects eligible for 306A funding are generally public piers, boat ramps, waterfront parks and resource restoration or protection projects.

In addition to the shell planting, other construction projects funded by the Bureau of Marine Resources are Ladner Fishing Pier, Waveland; Ocean Springs Community Pier Addition; Courthouse Road Access Area, Gulfport; Griffin Point Shoreline Stabilization, Moss Point; Gulf Park Estates Pier, Jackson County; Moses Pier Causeway, Gulfport; Curtis Johnson Waterfront Park, Hancock County; Old Fort Bayou Boat Launch, Jackson County; Pearlinton Boat Launch; Pops Ferry Boat Launch, Biloxi; West Biloxi Fishing Pier; and the Round Island Shoreline Stabilization project.

New training methods developed for problem horses

HATTIESBURG—A method of treatment traditionally used by physicians may prove beneficial to area horse trainers.

"The Tellington-Jones Equine Awareness Method (TEAM) is an alternative way of training and overcoming resistance in horses. It teaches him a new way of thinking and performing in a non-stressful, non-threatening way," said Vernell Williams, program coordinator at the University of Southern Mississippi Equestrian Center, who attended an eight-day TEAM clinic in California this summer.

"Most of the time a horse is 'bad' because it's afraid or hurting. TEAM work eliminates that because it looks for the underlying cause of the problem," Williams explained.

He said the method of training works on horses that are spoiled and have undesirable problems, as well as horses that are just starting their training or that have no problems.

The TEAM method of horse training is based on the work of Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais, a physician whose work Tellington-Jones simulated. Feldenkrais's method teaches people how to use their bodies properly in the wake of a crippling accident.

"Once the body learns a certain way of moving, it becomes a habit that doesn't require conscious effort," said Williams. "With Team, the old habits of bucking or flighty behavior, for example, are replaced with new conscious ways of doing things which, in turn, become habitual."

TEAM training requires less time than conventional horse-training, Williams pointed out, and involves several phases of training. The first phase, body-work, includes the exploration of the horse's body. Initial exploration will define areas where the horse is hurting.

Once the problem areas are found, the real "body work" begins. The trainer employs one or a combination of any of the special TEAM hand exercises that positively affect the horse's nervous system and thus relax his muscles to gradually eliminate the hurt.

"You don't have to do the body work long or even often," Williams said, noting the little time spent on the body work can increase trust between the horse and handler, and reduce stress caused by unnatural environments.

While the TEAM method concentrates primarily on the nervous system, Williams said the other phases of training resemble building blocks of confidence. The horse is led through a series of obstacles designed to increase subtleness, limberness, coordination or other physical problems before a saddle is added. Then, a person is placed on the saddle.

"The horse learns with each success. This improves the expertise of the experienced horseman, and builds confidence of beginners and non-horse people."

"The lines of communication between the horse and handler are improved so that TEAM work can cause miraculous transformations in the horse," Williams said.

Tools of the trade include a soft nylon lead line attached to a 30-inch chain and a stiff four-foot nylon whip that is referred to as a "magic wand."

The wand becomes an extension of the handler's hand and it acts as an orchestrator of the horse's movements, and the chain allows the horse to feel cues more distinctly, Williams said.

"TEAM work is like a general education," Williams pointed out. "It helps the handler speak horse language better."

The sense of awareness is heightened and the horse learns to stop and think instead of just blindly reacting.

In the future, the 37-year-old Western riding instructor wants to establish a TEAM facility at the USM Equestrian Center operated by the Intramural-Recreational Sports

Bassin' with the Pros

by Trey Foerster
Productive top water tips

I talked about effective use of Rapalas a few columns back and in this week's column I want to cover other uses of top water lures. Recently, much of the talk I've been hearing with fellow fishermen is that worms work best in hot water on sunny days. But this is not always the case!

Prop plugs and buzzers are two additional top water baits that can motivate bass to strike in three to six feet of water at high noon on the brightest and hottest day of the year. But, just like any other form of fishing, there are techniques, patterns, and trade secrets.

"Top water is the ultimate thrill in catching bass," states David Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member, "because you can see everything that is going on and get the thrill of that."

"Down here (in Texas)," Wharton continues, "if the lake has any kind of vegetation in it, some of the prime top water fishing is when those weed beds first begin to appear on the surface in five or seven feet of water. Normally, the more isolated the weed bed, the better it will be. Chugger-type baits like Heddon Chugger or Rebel Pop'R are prime choices in the beginning of the summer."

The propeller plug is used in two to six feet of clear to fairly clear water. The technique to use in about three feet of water on weedbeds, points and brush, is to cast the lure out to your target and let it sit for about 10 seconds. Then give it a twitch.

I repeat this pattern until the lure is halfway back to the boat. For a solitary bass magnet like a boulder, stump or tree, I cast the lure past the ambush point and twitch it back past the bass. You can cover a great deal of weedline by casting parallel down the line and maintaining a steady retrieve.

Drifting can be a deadly technique when used properly. For this to be productive, you need a faint wind to move the top water plug over the surface. Let's say you want to penetrate a willow's overhang but can't directly cast into the thick of it where the big bass may be holding. If you cast into the wind past the willow, the wind will push your lure under the limbs to the bass' territory.

In the late spring and summer a favorite lure to use is a buzzer, a spinnerbait-type lure with a propeller on the shaft ahead of the main body. These have become increasingly popular over the past couple of years, but the lure has a history of more than 50 years!

Some of the trade secrets to using a buzzer include fairly clear water, water temperature of 80 to 85 degrees and trailer hooks. A trailer hook is an additional hook carried by the primary hook on the rear of the lure.

Some pros even add an additional treble hook to the trailer hook! The reason why so many hooks are needed is that bass often hit at the lure where they think it is, not necessarily where it actually is. Buzzers are retrieved quickly, and with this fast pace the bass often strikes just as the lure passes, resulting in a missed strike. With a trailer hook, you pick up these misses.

Good places to fish for bass with buzzers are creek channels and the backs of coves. You'll also want to fish this lure in stickups, by stumps and other somewhat isolated structures. With all those hooks, you would certainly get hung up in heavy cover. Be sure to cast from the deep area into the shallows and on your retrieve a hit will probably occur somewhere at the dropoff point. Finally, always cast beyond your target by several feet and retrieve the buzzer past the ambush point.

Have any questions you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot them down and mail them to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

SPORTS FROM THE PRESSBOX

The issue of the lively ball has attracted its share of headlines this season. Baseballs are leaving the park in record fashion, and everybody has an opinion. Theories include weaker pitching, bigger strike zones, more hitters thinking about hitting homers, pitchers' unwillingness to throw inside, better conditioned athletes and, finally, the lively ball. The other reasons can't be measured, but the baseball can be—and it has. The latest tests on the baseballs were done by the Science and Aeronautics Department of the University of Missouri-Rolla during a two-week period after the All-Star break. The tests showed no difference in the balls used this year from the ones used in 1985, despite a 20 percent increase in home runs from last year. Both the National and American Leagues issued statements saying that the tests proved the balls are no more lively and charges of "juiced-up" balls should stop.

Speaking of setting home run records, Major League Baseball has nothing on slow-pitch softball. In the 19th annual Smoky Mountain Classic, which attracted 15 of the 25 best slow-pitch teams in the nation, homers were hit at a furious pace. Steele's Sports of Grafton, Ohio, hit a record 155 home runs in the seven tournament games.

Arguments between sports stars and sportswriters are not new, but the feud between the Atlanta Falcons and the Atlanta Journal-Constitution went as far as the newspaper's advertising department. The Falcons' Marketing Director Tommy Nobis said the paper's policy of running negative editorials next to the team's ad was wrong, and this prompted him to stop paying for the ads. Nobis notified the accounting department of the decision, but the next day Falcon owner Rankin Smith Sr. issued a statement saying that the bills would be paid. Apparently, the advertisements will continue until the Falcons' front office clears things up.

Three finalist named for MSU alumni director

Three Mississippi State University graduates are finalists for the position of director of alumni affairs at the university.

Those to be interviewed on campus are:

—John V. Corroero, associate director of alumni affairs at Mississippi State since 1975. He received a bachelor's degree in physical education and social studies education in 1962 and a master's degree in educational administration in 1964.

—Steve C. Grafton, legislative assistant to U.S. Sen. John Stennis since 1981. He graduated from MSU in 1980 with a degree in political science.

—William A. Stewart, civilian chief of contract inspection for the U.S. Army's Baumholder Military Community in Europe. He received bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering at MSU in 1976 and 1977.

The finalists were selected by a committee of Alumni Association and university representatives from among more than 40 candidates from across the country, said Vice President for Administration Billy Ward.

The new alumni director, expected to be named by September, will succeed Charles Weatherly, who earlier this year became coordinator of special projects for both the Alumni Association and the university's Development Foundation.

Corroero is a Greenwood native who joined the Alumni Association as field secretary in 1969. He became associate director in 1975. He was a three-year letterman in football at Mississippi State and was a teacher and coach at Natchez-Adams County High School in Natchez from 1964 to 1969. He currently serves as interim director of the Alumni Association.

Grafton, MSU student body president in his senior year, joined the staff of Sen. Stennis as assistant press secretary immediately upon graduation from MSU, and became legislative assistant a year later. He is also a member of the Mississippi Research and Development Council. He attended Pascagoula High School.

Stewart, who was reared in Pascagoula, has worked for the U.S. Army Europe, Baumholder Military Community, since 1984, first as chief of energy and environmental conservation and since November as chief of contract inspection. He was previously an environmental engineer for Rust International Corporation in Birmingham and has practiced law part time. He holds a law degree from Tulane University, in addition to degrees from MSU.

KEEPING FIT

Creeping Obesity: it sounds like a summer horror flick. But the scariest thing about it is that creeping obesity is real and it's after all of us if we're not careful. Over the years you may have noticed a slow, but steady, weight gain, maybe at the rate of a pound or two a year. That, my friends, is creeping obesity, and the biggest culprit is inactivity. "Settling" is what a lot of people call it.

Whatever it is, that slow weight gain has a lot to do with your basal metabolic rate (BMR) and body metabolism. Basal metabolic rate is the minimum amount of calories required by the body to sustain life, that is to keep the heart pumping, etc. Most people burn approximately 40 to 60 calories per hour just doing nothing.

People who exercise and are well-nourished tend to have higher BMR's; in other words, they burn more calories at rest, as well as during exercise, than people who don't exercise. People who are inactive and malnourished have lower BMR's. Aging also decreases BMR's.

By raising your BMR, your body will burn calories more efficiently, and you may be able to counteract "creeping obesity." The most effective way to raise the BMR is through a combination of balanced dieting and regular exercising.

Remember, settling into the good life isn't so good if you let creeping obesity get the best of you. Even the smallest amount of exercise is better than nothing, and it may keep you ahead of the game.

CARING FOR SHADE TREES

We often get calls from home owners wanting to know how to save their favorite shade tree after it has begun to die. Once a tree begins to die, there really isn't much that can be done. The trick is learning to care for shade trees to keep them healthy.

Some "don'ts" exist in caring for shade trees.

Don't plant the tree in the wrong place. Pin oaks do not like alkaline soils. Pines do not do well in wet soils. Don't plant dogwoods in unprotected open sites, or birches in the shade. Do not plant trees in building rubble.

Don't crowd trees by planting them in small holes. Don't fertilize or mix humus with the soil when planting.

Avoid wounding the tree by bumping it with the lawn mower or allowing someone wearing spikes to climb it. Brace young trees so tightly they can't move and avoid killing bark with cords or wires.

Topping trees is a serious injury regardless of how it is done. Avoid topping by starting to prune early in the tree's life to regulate shape and size.

Don't dress tree wounds with house paints and wood preservative, or apply a heavy coat of any material. Dressings do not stop decay or rot. Allow the tree to care for its wounds naturally. Keep the tree healthy.

Geological Survey's latest maps available

The U.S. Geological Survey has just completed the topographic mapping for Pearl River County, Hancock County and other areas of Southern Mississippi.

The maps are part of the 7 1/2 minute quadrangle series that the U.S. Geological Survey's National Mapping Division has been producing for the United States.

The maps are at a scale of 1:24,000 or 1 inch equals 3000 feet, and show road and trails, sectionlines, streams, lakes, cultural features and elevation contours.

Each map covers approximately 60 square miles and is used by hunters, fishermen, outdoorsmen, surveyors, engineers, farmers and others interested in the "lay of the land."

These maps replace previous editions published in the 1950's. The maps were produced from ground surveys tied to aerial photography taken in 1978 and 1982 and compiled by photogrammetric methods at the U.S. Geological Survey's Mid-Continent Mapping Center in Rolla, Missouri.

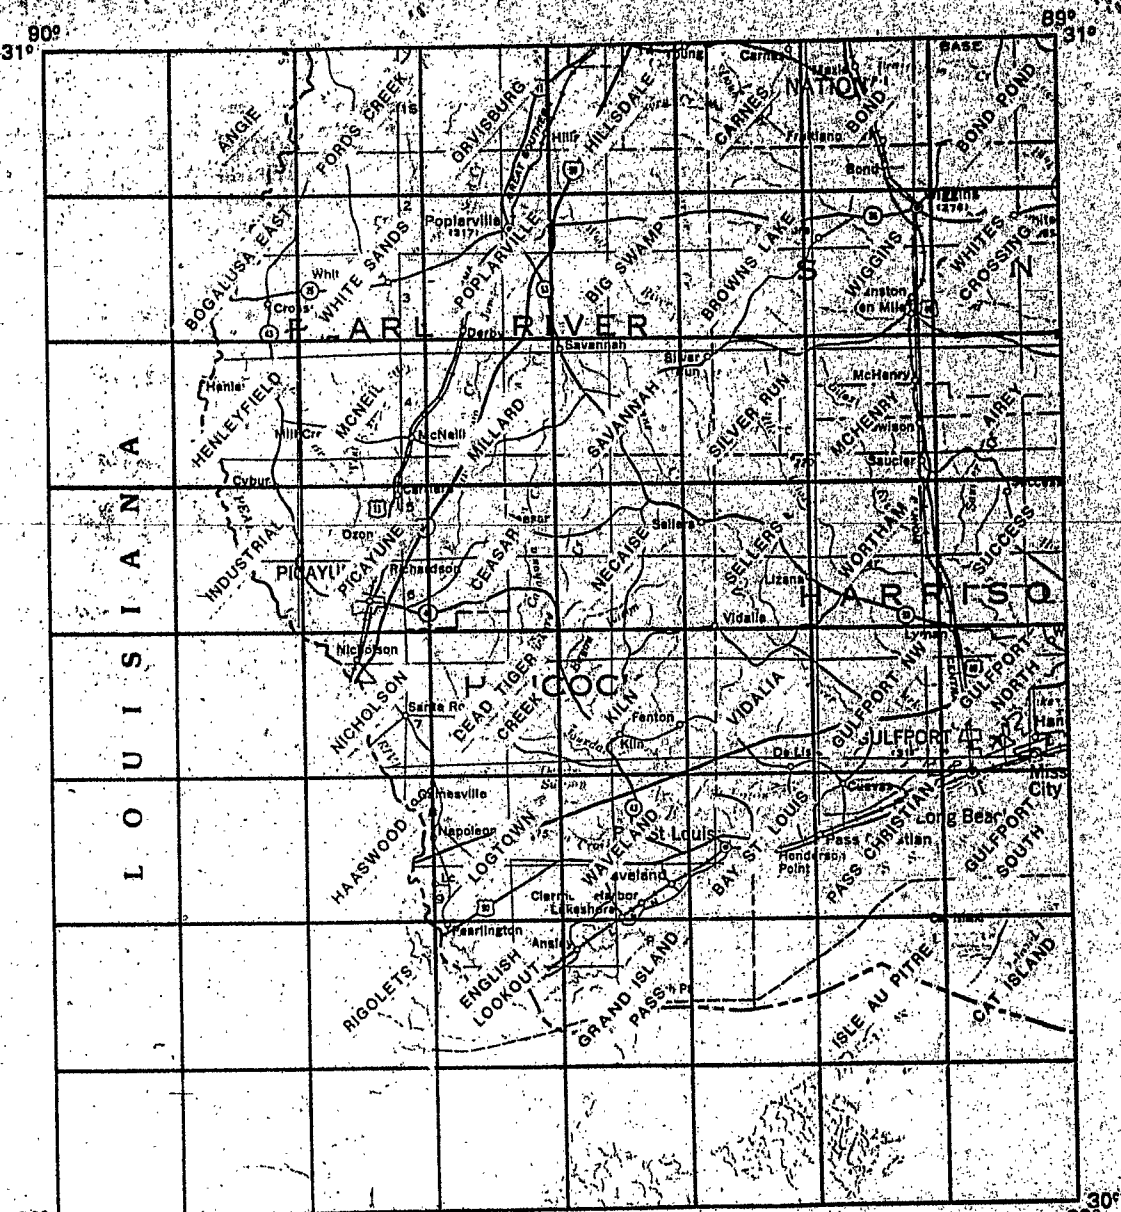

The areas covered by each of these maps are shown on the index to maps diagram and the maps are identified by name.

These maps can be purchased locally from Broadway Engineers, 115 Telly Road, Piquette, Ms 39468, (601) 798-3418; Don Bone, 6595 Red

Creek Road, Long Beach, Ms 39560, (601) 452-7487; Huttons, Inc., 3220 Hewes Ave., Gulfport, Ms 39501, (601) 863-0252; or U.S. Geological Survey, National Cartographic Information Center, Building 3101,

NSITL, MS 39629, (601) 866-3641. Maps similar to these are available for other areas of Mississippi and Louisiana by contacting the National Cartographic Information Center at NSITL.

EACH SQUARE REPRESENTS A SINGLE TOPOGRAPHIC MAP. MAPS ARE IDENTIFIED BY NAME.

Weekly Tip: Remember who your friends are.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) You may be a bit apprehensive now about diving into new things, but abandon your rationale and go with it.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Take yourself on a little trip to the mall; you deserve a special gift to yourself after all those long hours at work.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Some family members may demand that you put in extra hours at home. It would be wise to go with this since you may soon need their help.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) As the summer draws to a close, make sure you take time for your social life. But keep your priorities in strict order.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) If people in your scope are fading, be sure to lay low; it will blow over. Now is a good time to take some sort of gamble.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) New faces are entering your life now. Take advantage of this and learn from the experiences of others. Don't be too suspect of first impressions.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) That good mood you have is wearing off on others — keep it up! Your likability, as well as your social life altogether, is bound to spruce itself up.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) If you don't know the answer to some pressing question, don't horse around; honesty is the best policy. A humble attitude can reap you many rewards.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) This is not the time for any great ventures into the business world. Be more concerned with your friends and family.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your social calendar is quite full now, and you would do well to be your most congenial at these gatherings. Important people will be lurking about.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If your love life has been less than adequate, rest assured that romance is on the horizon for you. In fact, you may be overwhelmed by new prospects!

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Keep your fast and furious pace up, and you will surely be rewarded for your efforts. You must, however, be sure not to wear yourself down too soon.

Legumes: nature's underused storehouse

When one thinks of healthy, nutritious foods, vegetables, fruits, and cereal grains immediately spring to mind. 'International Wildlife' magazine reports, however, that the solution to severe worldwide nutrition shortages may lie elsewhere.

Ironically, legumes, a highly underrated and often neglected family of flowering plants, probably represent agriculture's best hope for feeding humanity and solving many resource problems.

Throughout the world, the Leguminosae family is the third largest family of flowering plants. Some 18,000 herbs, shrubs, and trees are members, including beans, peas, peanuts, and clover.

Many of these legumes are currently being grown to great advantage. Hundreds more, however, are largely ignored, wasting a great nutritional resource.

Legumes like peas, beans, peanuts, and soybean are commonly used in this country, but many lesser-known legumes are also important producers of nutritious foods.

On the average, legume seeds contain two to four times the protein of cereal grains and are rich with oils.

For example, southern Africa's Maramba beans taste like almonds and have more oil than soybeans and more protein than peanuts. South American nunas can be popped like popcorn yet are more nutritious. Honey locust trees, found in the United States, produce more sugar per acre than sugar cane; the south American inga pods are called ice cream beans because of their sweet taste; and American groundnut is a more nutritious substitute for potatoes.

The legume family also includes many of the world's fastest growing trees, making them leading candidates for producing firewood, a prime need in developing countries. This attribute, combined with their natural ruggedness, also allows the legume to be nature's most effective reforester; capable of recovering barren, abandoned, and even toxic lands.

Besides foods and firewood, legumes produce many other important products, including a gasoline-like fuel which comes from an Amazonian tree.

The drug L-dopa, used to treat victims of Parkinson's disease, is derived from a Central American shrub.

In addition to these assets, legumes are tremendously versatile. With the help of microscopic soil bacteria, they take unusable nitrogen gas out of the air and "fix" it, in the process creating protein, vitamins, and other nitrogen-containing compounds.

This ability to produce its own nutrients frees the legume to live virtually anywhere.

The tamarugo tree of Chile, for example, is able to thrive in the Atacama Desert where the soil is comprised of almost nothing but salt and the only moisture for miles comes from the mist in the air.

The nitrogen that legumes collect also enriches soil, making it a more fertile base for nearby plants.

In fact, legumes are so productive that each year legume crops add more nourishment to the soil than does all the fertilizer produced by industry.

Without legumes, many of the world's soils would wear out, significantly diminishing global vegetation and further increasing world hunger.

Unfortunately, despite their great value, legumes are rarely planted as a crop. And even though legumes are powerful fertilizers, they are not used to full advantage in replenishing depleted soils.

Worse yet, many legumes face extinction, as with the Ye-eb, a high-protein, great-tasting seed found in Somalia and Ethiopia.

Nevertheless, the future of legumes may become brighter. Because they play an important role in replenishing and reclaiming depleted lands, and because they have so much unused potential, they may well be Mother Nature's answer to the world food shortage.

Cicadas to make 13-year return

MISSISSIPPI STATE — It has been four years since Mississippians last encountered the periodical cicada, but residents along the eastern border of the state should start seeing and hearing the noisy insect again in the next few days.

Cicadas are expected to emerge along about a 50-mile span running north and south of the eastern border of the state, said Dr. James Jarratt, an entomologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"People in this area will soon be hearing loud, shrill noises in the afternoon, known as the song of the cicada," Jarratt said. "The noise will last for three-fourths of the day for two to three weeks."

The cicada, although a noise nuisance, poses no real threat to gardens or crops.

The entomologist said the egg-laying habits of these insects will cause some damage to the terminal leaves of trees. But, the only place this will cause damage is on the branches of fruit trees.

There is not a great deal that can be done about either the noise or the egg laying habits of cicadas," Jarratt said.

The cicada is not a locust, but is often mistaken for this member of the grasshopper family because cicadas can appear at times in large numbers.

According to Jarratt, there are two types of cicadas. One is referred to as dog-day cicada, and Mississippians see this one every year when it emerges from the soil in July and August.

"These are large, black insects with greenish markings," Jarratt said. "Their life-cycle takes two to five years to complete, but the broods overlap so some adults appear every year."

The insect that has the state under siege now, however, is what entomologists call the periodical cicada that emerges in May and June.

The periodical cicada is about half the size of the dog-day cicada and the eyes and veins in the wings are red. The life cycle of this group lasts either 13 or 17 years, and in any given area, adults may not be present every year.

Cicadas emerging now are the 13-year cicada and were last seen in large numbers in Mississippi in 1983. The 1983 appearance was the 19th brood and it will not be seen again until 1996. Cicadas Mississippians are seeing this year are members of the 21st brood of the 13-year-cicada and will be seen again in 2000.

Waveland United Methodist celebrates Bible school graduation

SINGING Bible school students add to their song with gestures as they entertain at graduation ceremonies.

ALL TOGETHER—All of the classes in Waveland United Methodist Church's annual vacation Bible school participate in a final song during graduation ceremonies. The children ranged from age three years to nine or older.

MUSICAL ACCOMPANIMENT for the Bible school graduation ceremony at Waveland United Methodist Church is provided by Marie Schneller.

CERTIFICATES—Rev. Wilton Holston distributes certificates to Bible school participants at Waveland United Methodist Church.

GUESTS watch as Waveland United Methodist Church vacation Bible School participants receive certificates at a graduation ceremony. A total of 47 children participated in the week-long school this year.

LITTLE GIRLS in the seven- and eight-year-old Bible school class at Waveland United Methodist Church wait for their cue to begin singing. Music instruction was provided by Debbie Estapa and Kathleen Asher with Marie Schneller as accompanist.

A VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL CLASS sings to guests at Waveland United Methodist Church. Teachers and assistants for the annual school included Carol Mahler, Belinda Durbin, James Gallagher and Eddie Sanders for the three- and four-year-old division; Ruth Sanders for the five- and six-year-olds; Lois Cripple for the seven- and eight-year-olds; and Idus Oae for the nine and older class. Alice King was in charge of refreshments and John Perkins provided general assistance. Selma George served as superintendent. Assisting with graduation ceremonies were Olga Skelton, Hattie Lee and Michael Sanders, who served as master of ceremonies.

WAITING—Some of the younger participants in vacation Bible school line up to await their turn to sing.

PROJECTS by students at vacation Bible school ranged from workbook exercises to arts and crafts.

Children & Divorce

HATTIESBURG—Divorce usually hits children hard, but Dr. Reed Mottley uses his personal experience to help parents and school teachers soften the blow.

"Suffice it to say that even under the best conditions, divorce is bad for children," Mottley, a professor of reading in the University of Southern Mississippi's College of Education and Psychology, said in a recent interview.

"The psychologists tell us that divorce is second only to the death of a parent as a major crisis for the little people."

Mottley knows. The graying, 50-year-old scholar's eyes narrowed to a distant focus, as if he were reading from a text carved onto a slate in his memory.

"I had a story-book marriage," Mottley reflected, harking back to his original family. "We had everything before us." He and his first wife, Ann, enjoyed playing in tennis tournaments. They shared a sizeable inheritance. They had two intellectually gifted children.

One night, the couple went to see the movie, "Love Story," in which a young wife dies of cancer. Little did I know that the next day I'd be in the same situation," Mottley said. "The next day, Ann drowned in a swimming accident. Both children were there."

In time, Mottley remarried, but the strain of his first wife's death on him and his children contributed to a short-lived marriage, ending in divorce. His daughter developed emotional problems that eventually put her in a mental hospital for three years. Having witnessed her mother's death at the vulnerable age of 5, she reacted by imagining she was to blame for the tragedy.

Now in a third, happy marriage to Pamela Myrick Mottley, he draws upon his personal experience professionally by teaching teachers how to help make life easier for the children of broken homes—an ever-increasing population.

During the interview, Mottley recapitulated a lecture on the effects of divorce on children's schooling, which he delivered in July at the 47th USM Annual Reading Conference—the third oldest such event in the United States.

"By 1990, more than 25 percent of the children a teacher faces...will be from single-parent homes," Mottley predicted. "Most of these will be from divorce."

Those children will have a harder time in school, he predicted, adding, "When (emotional) security systems break down, coping skills break down too."

"All children fantasize and have all kinds of dreams for their families," Mottley said. "When dreams are broken, that brings on depression."

"You don't want to punish children for their pouting, brooding, et cetera," he added. "It is a time to be tolerant, but life goes on. They've still got to make up their bed and feed the dog or cat."

Mottley's tips for helping children adjust to divorce include:

—Assure them that they are not to blame for the divorce.

—Discourage false hopes of reconciliation.

—Allow children to discuss their other parent, and do not alienate them from the other parent.

—See that the children associate with a caring, same-sex role model.

—Avoid expensive gifts. What the children really want is love and affection.

—Do not use the children to carry messages to the other parent or as weapons against the other parent.

—Avoid as many changes—such as moving—as possible.

—If step-parents become involved, do not attempt to make the step-parent a new mother or father to the children.

—Family counseling can be very helpful for everyone involved. Above all, be understanding, Mottley advised. "We have to expect kids to have periodic lapses even after we think they've recovered."

Whether or not court settlements are seen as fair by those involved, affected families must accept the real changes divorce brings into their lives.

"Divorce means bad times, it means hurt, it means loneliness, it means tears, it means fright," Mottley said, but he added that children and parents can survive all that if they nurture hope.

When Mottley reflects on his family's traumatic story, he does so hopefully.

"The good times still outweigh the bad," he said.

SUMMER READER—Leslie Billiot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hill of Waveland gets ready to sign her name to the Summer Reading Program's "Constitution" at the Awards Day Celebration marking the end of the Hancock County Library System's Summer Reading Program July 16 at the Waveland Library.

RETIREMENT—Jewel McCaleb, secretary at Bay Junior High School, has retired after more than 28 years of service. While working with the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, she served as secretary to one superintendent, S.J. Ingram, and three principals, Robert Magee, Bill Terry and W.J. Cameron. Her retirement plans include spending more time with her family, traveling and working with arts and crafts. McCaleb was honored with a retirement party by the school faculty and staff. Hayden dorm to be dedicated Aug. 16

PERKINSTON—Dedication ceremonies for a new $2 million dormitory on Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 16.

The dormitory, which will house 200 men, has been named in honor of former GJCJC President Dr. J. J. Hayden Jr.

Hayden, who now resides in Pass Christian, is credited with helping make the dormitory a reality, one of his last official acts before retiring after 32 years as president.

The 33,500 square-foot building is fully carpeted and air conditioned with an apartment for a live-in supervisor.

The motel-style facility features a large lobby with 16-foot ceilings and open beams. Each of the double-occupancy rooms has an outside entrance. A bath connects each two rooms.

The dedicatory address for Mrs. Eula Switzer, Harrison County supervisor and former member of the college board of trustees.

During the ceremonies, which are open to the public, a portrait of Dr. Hayden will be unveiled. It will hang in the lobby. A reception and open house will follow.

Dr. Clyde Strickland, campus vice president, said, "The new facility will allow the closing of at least three of the older dorms—Huff Hall, built in 1911, and Jackson and Stone Halls, both built in 1915."

He said the campus "this fall will have two women's dorms which will accommodate 300, and five dorms to house 465 men."

Deep among the coral reefs of the South Pacific there exists a giant clam that weighs up to 500 pounds.

Duke's brilliant student search includes Fornea

Allison Fornea, of Doerre Intermediate School, Spring, Texas was among Texas seventh graders who participated in Duke University's Seventh Annual Search for mathematically and verbally brilliant students.

They were honored at ceremonies held at Baylor University and Trinity University on June 4 and 5.

All students invited to the ceremonies had earned scores on at least one section of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) equal to or greater than the scores obtained by 50 percent of college-bound high school seniors.

These seventh grade students took this college entrance test as participants in Duke University's Talent Identification Program (TIP).

"Tip was established in 1980 to identify bright young students to help develop their special abilities, and to direct them toward special academic programs for the gifted and talented."

The 1987 TIP Talent Search involved more than 41,000 students and covered 16 southern, southwestern and midwestern states. It is one of four university-based talent searches which together cover the entire United States," said Robert Sawyer, director of the program.

Miss Fornea is the daughter of George and Sherri Miller Fornea of Spring; granddaughter of Wayne and Corrine Ladner Fornea of Biloxi; and great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ladner who had lived in the Bayou LaCroix community.

In addition, she is the great-niece of Miss Maude Ladner, Mrs. Cora Martin and David Martin, all of Bay St. Louis; Ida Whitney of Bayou LaCroix, and Alice Wilhelm of Waveland.

SAT SCORERS—Texas seventh graders from Doerre Intermediate School who participated in Duke University's Seventh Annual Search for mathematically and verbally brilliant students are, from left, Rebecca Anderson, Lisa Wirth, Lisa Chazar and Allison Fornea.

Development specialist hired

Jennifer Anne Downey of Hattiesburg has been hired as director of Research Administration, Grants, and Proposals Development at Pearl River College.

Downey is leaving her position as information specialist with the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Downey's specific responsibilities will include compiling proposals for various college projects for external funding agencies such as the Federal Government and private philanthropic and corporate foundations.

"It's exciting to have the opportunity to build a program from the ground up," Downey said. "I'll have the opportunity to wear several hats here at Pearl River college."

There's a lot of growth here at PRC," Downey said. "To be a part of this expansion is very exciting."

Downey will officially take over her new position at Pearl River Aug. 1; however, the PRC Board of Trustees has already authorized her to submit applications to the U.S. Department of Education for low interest loans for campus renovation and construction.

Miss Downey, a Hattiesburg native and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James C. Downey of Hattiesburg, received a bachelor of science degree in English from USM in 1979 and a masters in communication from the University of Oklahoma in 1984.

Dr. Downey is professor of music, history and literature at William Carey College. Her mother, Phyllis, is a teacher in the Hattiesburg School System.

As an undergraduate at USM ('77-'79) Downey assisted in the planning, implementation and evaluation of an intensive communication skills training program for high-risk college students.

After graduation she was a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of Communications at the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

In 1981, Downey became a project specialist with the Office of Research Administration at the Oklahoma University Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City. In 1983, she became a scientific communication specialist with the Cancer Research Program at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation.

While working at USM, Downey had the opportunity to locate and choose the most appropriate funding source for particular projects, and to keep faculty abreast of funding agencies information.

Downey was named the Young Research Administrator of 1982, District 5, National Council of University Research Administrators.

Miss Downey will also teach classes in speech or English composition on the PRC campus.

HELLO! I'm The Sea Coast Echo. Most folks know me by my nick-name "The ECHO". (Echo - that's mountain talk for hot air that bounces back).

I've been hanging around these parts, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Hancock County for quite a long time. I am 96-years-old this year.

I've visited with most all of you in your home from time to time and some of you twice a week. Can't call all of your names, but I know most of you from the touch of your hands and that hungry look in your eyes.

See my friends, I'm your local news newspaper. My visiting days are Thursday and Sunday. I bring vital information and advertising of high import to every citizen in Hancock County, grown-ups and little tots alike.

I am a messenger boy for the business folks. They hire me to do the job of the town crier (that's a poor fella who used to run around the streets exercising his vocal chords, screaming out the daily news for all he was worth). My Bosses make it easy for me. They make sure that I am going to hang around for a while, so they smear me up with a bunch, and I mean a bunch of all those different colors. I really rub off on you! Takes me a while to get primed, but I get on my soapbox twice a week to gently tell you 'bout what's been going on around town. Then I bring you the best prices on vittles, soda pop, clothes, other folks' junk (some-a-us calls them treasures), new-fangled eating called hamburgers (ain't found no ham in the fust one) and pizza pies (a big flapjack with a big glob of goo and baloney on top), and just a whole lotta other things that you just gotta have. Shucks, they're nice to have even if you don't gotta have 'em.

Don't cost much to get me to come around your house. All you gotta do is send my Big Boss 16 of those green bills with President Washington's pitcher on it and I'll come visiting you two times a week real soon.

Seriously folks, SUBSCRIBE TODAY! If you live in my home delivery area, I'll be there every Thursday and Sunday morning. For those outside the area in Hancock County, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Perkinston, and Picayune, I'll usually be there on Thursday and Monday with your U. S. Mail.

You can't beat this deal anywhere in town. For just $16.00 you get 102 issues of The ECHO. That's only 15.69 cents a copy. Best deal in town!

Call 467-5474 and order today!

Better yet, clip the coupon and send it in along with your check or money order for $16.00 to:

PUBLIC NOTICE
A public meeting will be conducted by the Board of Adjustment at 7:00 p.m., on Wednesday, August 26, 1987, in the City Hall of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, to consider a variance to the Bay St. Louis Zoning Ordinance relative to the following described property. This property is owned by James Robinson, and is located at 332 State St., Part of Lot 548A, First Ward, City of Bay St. Louis, MS.
Said variance concerns a reduction rear set back, from 25' to 21'. This variance is being requested in order to place an addition to the home.

Hancock County schools list 87-88 opening schedule

The Hancock County School District reports opening day of the 1987-1988 school year for students is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 17.

New student registration will be on Aug. 13 and 14, 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

"It is of the utmost importance that all new students in the Hancock County School District register to prevent delay on the first day of school," said James Pair, assistant superintendent.

"In order for your child to be permanently enrolled an original certificate or certified copy of birth and Mississippi health compliance (blue or yellow slip) is required by state law," he pointed out.

Students who have completed the 1986-87 school year with the Hancock County School District are not required to re-register.

Students entering kindergarten must reach their 5th birthday on or before Sept. 1, 1987. Students entering 1st grade must reach their 6th birthday on or before Sept. 1, 1987.

The 1987-1988 school session for the Hancock County School District will begin on Monday, Aug. 17, 1987 at 8:30 a.m. for three days of staff development for all staff members.

All certified staff, teacher aides, and teacher assistants will report to the school for which they will be working. School food and transportation personnel will report to Hancock North Central.

The first student day is Thursday, Aug. 20 for a full day of school.

The school cafeterias will begin serving meals that day.

Lunch charges will be: paid student, $1, reduced student, 40 cents; adult lunch, $1.35.

Applications for free and reduced price meals should be sent to parents of all school children as early as possible in the school year to allow for the return and review of applications.

Prior to the processing of applications for the school year, free and reduced price meals may be served to children from households with approved applications on file from last year.

This includes (1) new students in a school with older siblings that were approved for benefits the previous year, and (2) previously approved students that transfer from one school to another, in the Hancock County School District. All other students are required to pay full price for lunches.

School buses will run approximately 10 minutes earlier than last year. Any changes in routes will come during the first week of school.

SECOND GRADE WINNERS in North Bay Elementary's talent show include, from left, Rhianon Ferrell, who sang "Over the Rainbow" to win first place; Michelle Perniciaro and Melissa Carver, who danced to music from "Star Wars" to win second place; and Beth Stechman and Christy Burch, who danced to "Rocking Robin" for third place.

ETV Brief

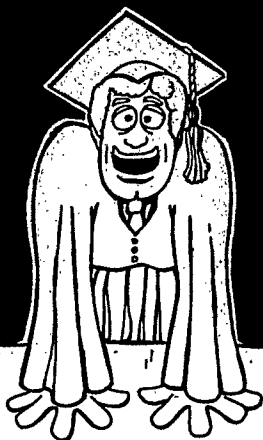

DRUM CORPS

Music becomes a visual experience when North America's top drum corps take the field of competition in "Drum Corps International World Championships: The Sight of Music" at 9 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 15, on Mississippi ETV.

Live from Camp Randall Stadium on the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison, the broadcast will focus on the visual effects, music and choreography of the top five corps that compete in the finals of the World Championships. Also included in the two-hour broadcast will be the massing of the top 12 corps for the grand finale and the announcement of scores.

Readers Constitution—Dawn Breun, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Breun of Kiln, signs her name to the Readers Constitution while Stephen Landry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Landry, also of Kiln, awaits his turn. The signing of the Constitution was part of an awards ceremony at the Kiln Library that marked the end of the 1987 Summer Reading Program.

Fall registration set at USM-Gulf Park

LONG BEACH—The University of Southern Mississippi at Gulf Park will register students for the fall term Thursday, Aug. 27, from 1 to 7 p.m. in the Administration Building.

Students transferring credits from other institutions must submit them before registration. Exceptions must be approved through the Student Services office.

Tuition for undergraduate courses is $58 per semester hour, and graduate tuition is $70 per semester hour. One-half of a student's total fees for the semester is due at registration. Awarded loans, grants of scholarships apply toward the amount due at registration.

Students who are unable to register at the Gulf Park campus, on East Beach Boulevard in Long Beach, may register for Gulf Park courses at USM/Keesler in Biloxi, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26; or at USM/Jackson County in Gautier, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m., Aug. 26.

For more information, call USM/Gulf Park at (601)865-4500.

Bay-Waveland Schools Testing Department slates placement exams

The Guidance and Testing Department of the Bay St. Louis/Waveland School District will be administering placement tests to all students in grades 6, 7, and 8 retained one or more years.

Students should report to the Bay Senior High Library Monday at the times listed:

—Students who were in the 6th grade during the 1986-1987 school year report at 8:30 a.m.; 7th grade students report at 10 a.m. and 8th grade students report at 2 p.m.

For information contact Mrs. Allison at 467-5297 or Mrs. Dean at 467-9237.

This opportunity is only for those students who have not reached ninth grade for the 1987-1988 school year.

ETV Brief

THE BIG BAND

The big band sound fills Hollywood's Palladium in "Sentimental Swing: The Music of Tommy Dorsey" at 9 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 19, on Mississippi ETV.

Jack Jones, Maureen McGovern and the L.A. Voices join host Mel Torme in this Nostalgic tribute to Dorsey.

The late drummer Buddy Rich makes his last television appearance as a special guest, and trombonist Buddy Morrow conducts the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra.

PRC freshmen orientation slated in White Coliseum

POPLARVILLE—Pearl River College's required orientation for freshman and transfer students will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 24 in the Marvin R. White Coliseum.

According to Dow Ford, PRC's director of admissions, the orientation session is required before freshman and transfer students can register.

All Students entering an academic or technical program must also have an American College Test (ACT) score on file prior to registering.

Students who have not taken the ACT can take the test on Tuesday, Aug. 18 at 8:15 a.m. in the Science Building Auditorium. To sign up for the test call the Office of Student Affairs at 795-6801, ext.215.

Director Ford said that Pearl River will have a registration schedule to insure an orderly and fair registration system.

"We realize many of our students work and/or commute with other students," Ford said, "but, we will not be able to accommodate students who wish to register early."

Pearl River College workers, football players, band members, cheerleaders and String of Pearls will begin the fall registration Friday, August 21st.

That afternoon (Friday) sophomores will begin registering at 1 p.m. On Monday, August 24, registration will continue at 8:30 a.m.

Freshman, transfer and former students will also begin registration on Monday (August 24) at 10: a.m.

The 1987 fall semester registration for Mississippi's pioneer junior college will continue through Tuesday (August 25).

Education Department lists school lunch guidelines

The State Department of Education, public school districts, private schools and child care centers announce the United States Department of Agriculture income guidelines for free and reduced price meals served under the School Lunch, School Breakfast, Food Distribution and Child Care Food Programs.

Families with children in any of these facilities, who are unable to pay the full price of the meals are encouraged to apply for benefits.

Applications and instructions for applying, will be sent home with each student during registration or on the first day of school. To apply for the meal benefits, households should fill out the application and return it to the school or center. Additional copies of the application are available at the administrative office of each facility.

For the school/center officials to determine eligibility, the household must report income information or provide a food stamp or AFDC case number.

If the child receives AFDC payments, or is a member of a food stamp household, the parent or guardian only has to provide the name of child, food stamp or AFDC case number, and the signature of the parent or guardian.

Other applicants must report the total household income and the amount, and the source of income received by each household member.

In order for income applicants to be approved, the household must also provide the following on the application: the names of all household members; the social security numbers of all adult household members or an indication that the adult does not have a social security number; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data. The information provided may be verified at any time during the year by school/center or program officials.

Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

Also, if a household member becomes unemployed, or if the household size increases, the household should contact the school.

Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for reduced price or free meals if the household's income falls at or below the levels shown in the income scales.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the year as circumstances change.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for meal benefits. If a household has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for meal benefits for them, the household should contact the school/center for more information.

Each school/center has a copy of the approved free and reduced meal policy. The policy indicates who is responsible for determining eligibility. The determining official is in most instances the principal, the food service supervisor, or the center director.

Each school/school district/center has an individual named as the hearing official. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the determining official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

Parents wishing to make a formal appeal may make a request either orally or in writing to the hearing official. The school/center office or the superintendent's office staff can provide the name, address and phone number of the hearing official.

In the operation of child feeding programs administered by the USDA no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap.

If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown in the accompanying scale, are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Questions about the application process may be submitted to the principal of a child's school, the District Superintendent of Education or the Division of Child Nutrition in the State Department of Education.

Area districts and schools participating in the program include Hancock County Schools, Bay St. Louis Separate School District, Bay St. Louis Catholic Schools, St. Clare School, St. Stanislaus School, Pass Christian Separate School District, St. Paul Interparochial School, Pearl River County Schools, Piquette Separate School District, and Saint Michael's Farm.

For parent and child

First day causes new feelings

So your child starts kindergarten this fall! Many parents probably have some mixed feelings about the event.

A child is no longer the fast-developing infant or toddler who was completely dependent on the parent for physical tending, emotional support and social exposure, according to Norine Barnes, a child and family development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Parents will never again be quite as important to the child. On the other hand, Barnes said parents are proud to see the child growing into a self-sufficient individual who can adjust to, and enjoy society and its expectations.

By focusing on their feelings about this family change, parents can understand and empathize with a child's mixed feelings about starting to school. By expressing their joys and fears, parents become a role model for the child, encouraging open communication about negative, as well as positive emotions.

"Parents fear that by allowing a child to express negative emotions, such as fear, anger or jealousy, they will encourage these feelings but that is not true," Barnes said. "What you really do is allow them to acknowledge and work through these emotions without shame or guilt."

For some, kindergarten is the first daily group situation away from home. Many other children have already spent one, two or more years in a preschool setting. Even for the more experienced children, however, kindergarten is still a giant step.

Preschool centers are planned to extend individualized, personal, family-oriented care such as what parents give to children at home. Kindergarten, however, is part of real school.

In real school, children begin to learn their roles as citizens and to acquire the formal skills they will need in the future. In kindergarten children begin the process of being evaluated on their abilities in school.

Besides emotional support and encouragement, parents can help prepare the child so kindergarten will be as free of tension as possible. Barnes provided these suggestions:

Visit the doctor, dentist and eye doctor but don't connect these visits with school. They are sound practices that are appropriate at this time.

"Help the youngster learn his whole name, address, telephone number and what to do if you are late arriving at home or school," Barnes said.

Make no promises, but talk and wonder together about school. Read some good books about school and tell your own stories about the "old days" when you went to school.

Help the child understand about progress at school. Many children are crushed to find they can't read the very first day!

Schedules may change when school starts. Get a head start by adjusting bedtime and mealtime if this will be necessary. Parents having a new job that requires after school-day care for the child can start that routine early to allow time for adapting to change, so school and day care aren't both new at the same time.

The need for mature behavior increases with school. A child who must share an adult with many children needs both patience and self-help skills. To help children help themselves, label everything such as lunch boxes and notebooks. Also label the child's right shoes so there will be no confusion as to which shoe goes on which foot.

Practice using money. Plan a safe way to carry money, and give the child the experience of paying for a treat, a newspaper or school supplies. Children should know the names of the coins needed at school. Close to the opening of school, pay a visit to your child's teacher and classroom, so he will know his room. Let the teacher know that she is welcome in your home if visitation is possible.

PRC nursing program accredited

The Pearl River College Associate Degree Nursing Program has received National League for Nursing (NLN) accreditation until the year 1995.

Charlotte Odom, director of the PRC Associate Degree Nursing (ADN) Program, attended the meeting of the NLN Board of Review in New York City and reported that the effective date until 1995 is with no progress report required.

"Pearl River graduates and students are assured of high quality education based on meeting these national and state standards," Odom said.

The written self-study began in 1986 using the criteria developed by the NLN for evaluation of Associate Degree Nursing Programs. In fact, the accreditation is retroactive to April 6, 1986.

The criteria covered every aspect of program operation and includes the philosophy, purpose and objectives, organization and administration, faculty, students, curriculum, resources, facilities and services.

Pearl River had a joint site visit by the State Accreditation and NLN back in May. The visiting group then made a written report to the 10-member Board of Review.

Pearl River College has been offering the Associate in Applied Sciences Degree in nursing since 1967 and has graduated more than 700 students.

In a special board meeting here Wednesday, the PRC Board of Trustees officially commended the associated degree nursing faculty, staff, and administrator for seeking and obtaining the accreditation.

SWITCHABLE TOUCH-TONE/PULSE phones work on both tone and pulse lines. Therefore, in areas having only pulse (rotary dial) lines, you can still use services requiring tones, like the new long-distance systems and computerized services. FCC registered. Not for use on party lines. We service what we sell.
